HELSINKI, July 11 — The Finnish radio announced tonight that Finland had declined an invitation to the Paris economic conference.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, July 10—The east-west rift in Europe widened today on the eve of a continental recovery conference as Russia's friends lined up with her in a boycott of the meeting, called by Britain and France.

Fourteen nations had accepted invitations to join the two sponsors in consultations on the Marshall plan to begin at 11 a. m. (5 a. m., eastern standard time) tomorrow.

But seven others, all in the east and all tied politically or economically to the Soviet Union, had turned down such invitations.

Finland Keeps Mum

Of the 22 nations invited, only Finland had made no official statement. Stockholm reported last night that a Helsinki dispatch said Finland's government would meet 12 p. m. today to give its reply. But early today the Moscow radio, heard in London, said, "it has been disclosed in Helsinki that the Finnish government passed yesterday a unanimous decision on the necessity to reject" the conference invitation.

Of the non-participating countries, Czechoslovakia had said earlier this week she would attend the conference, but last night announced she had changed her mind because "acceptance of the invitation might be construed as an action against the Soviet Union."

Confers With Stalin

The announcement in Prague said the entire cabinet had approved the decision. The cabinet had been in session six hours after a telephone call from Communist Premier Klement Gottwald in Moscow. Gotwald night before last saw Soviet Prime Minister Stalin.

The lineup on tomorrow's conference

Out—Russia, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Roumania, Bulgaria and Albania.

In—Britain, France, Austria, Belgium, the Netherlands Luxemburg, Eire, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Italy, Portugal, Greece and Turkey.

Doubtful—Finland.

Not invited—Spain.

PRIESTS ASSIGNED BY BISHOP READY

Fr. James J. Carroll Sent to Columbus Church.

Rev. James J. Carroll, assistant pastor of St. Mary Catholic church here, has been assigned to the same position at Holy Family church in Columbus by Bishop Michael J. Ready of the Columbus Catholic diocese, an Associated Press dispatch from Columbus reported today. He will be succeeded here by Rev. E. H. Boyden, chaplain at St. Aloysius academy at Lexington, the dispatch reported.

Other assignments announced by Bishop Ready included appointment of Rev. Felix Cleary, present pastor at St. John the Baptist, Columbus, as administrator of St. Joseph's church at Hilliard and the mission church St. Lawrence at Caledonia, and the Rev. William Meyer, who has been pastor at LaRue and the mission, to become pastor of the Church of the Ascension at Johnstown.

Father Carroll came to Marion as assistant pastor of St. Mary in December 1945, following his ordination to the priesthood in St. John's cathedral, Columbus the preceding October. His home was in Columbus where he was a member of St. Leo's parish.

Prospect of 10 Per Cent Less Meat in 1948 Faces America

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, June 11—The nation faces the prospect today of possibly 10 per cent less meat by early 1948.

Such a reduction would be accompanied by higher prices if consumer demand continues strong.

These possibilities are based on an agriculture department crop report yesterday forecasting a sharp drop in the corn crop as a result of one of the worst planting seasons on record.

The corn crop—which is the basic raw material for meat, dairy and poultry products—was forecast at 2,612,809,000 bushels. This compares with last year's record of 3,287,927,000, the government's goal of 3,000,000,000 bushels and a 10-year average of 2,639,927,000.

High Yield Needed

Officials said a crop of around 2,850,000,000 bushels of good quality corn would be needed to maintain meat production at the present level of 153 pounds a year for each consumer.

A crop of the size indicated, officials said, would require a cut in meat production of about 10 per cent, or about 15 pounds per consumer. This still, however, would leave supplies at about 138 pounds per person compared with the prewar average of 126 pounds.

Officials are not ready, however, to accept the corn forecast as final, still holding hopes for a harvest of at least 2,850,000,000 bushels, they noted that acreage planted to corn is only 4.9 per cent below last year when the record crop was produced, despite adverse planting season weather.

Weather Holds Balance

Grain experts said that if corn gets a "good break" on the weather during the remainder of the summer and is not caught by an early frost before it has matured, the crop could easily reach 3,000,000,000 bushels. In that event, there would need be no reduction in livestock production.

The department's forecast was based on conditions prevailing July 1, a time when floods still darkened the outlook. It did not take into account improved weather during the first 10 days of July.

Offsetting to a degree the rather gloomy corn forecast was a prediction that the wheat crop will exceed last month's record figure of 1,408,000,000 bushels by 25,000,000 bushels. The wheat supply will be sufficient to allow large exports and permit some to be used for livestock feed, if necessary.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Livestock and meat authorities in the nation's largest marketing center disagreed today as to the effect on supplies indicated in the government's forecast of a sharp drop in the corn crop.

H. M. Conway, market analyst for the National Livestock Producers association, termed the government's estimated production as "optimistic" and said the country was in a "fairly critical situation which is more likely to go worse than not."

The American Meat Institute, however, said it could "see no drastic effect on meat supplies or prices" resulting from the possible short crop, while a spokesman for one of the large meat packing companies said the reduced production of corn was "unlikely to have much effect because of the much larger carryover of corn this year than last."

Conway said the estimated 2,612,000,000-bushel corn crop was "right on the critical edge as far as livestock production is concerned. It is not bad enough to force liquidation of breeding stock, but if it should drop to 2,400,000,000 or below you will see marketing of sows and gilts which would be the source of future pork supplies.

"Both yield and total production of corn will depend on our subsequent weather conditions. We haven't yet had any real 'corn weather,' and because of the late season the crop likely will be soft with high moisture content and low feeding quality."

MEXICO BANS MOST IMPORTS

Cut Off Flow of All But Absolutely Essential Foreign Goods.

By The United Press

MEXICO CITY, July 11—Mexico cut off imports of automobiles, foodstuffs, refrigerators, radios and other "non-essential" foreign products—90 per cent of them American—today in a drastic move to stablize her economy.

A government decree announced by Secretary of Treasury Ramon Beteta also raised tariffs on metal articles, cigaret papers and many other products not included in the import embargo.

Beteta said the degree was temporary ,remaining effective "probably a matter of months."

The decree, effective today, stated that the Mexican people in their clamor for foreign luxury goods were squandering the Bank of Mexico reserves, endangering the the country's economy and retarding Mexican industrialization.

The embargo an 24 classifications of foreign goods was total except for shipment enroute to Mexico as of today.

Americans Hardest Hit

American manufacturers and importers will be hardest hit because Mexico gets 90 per cent of her imports from the United States. The United States buys about 75 per cent of Mexico's exports. Last year Mexico had an unfavorable American trade balance of $180,000,000.

"This decree does not signify that Mexico repudiates the principle of free commenrce which she has sustained in her internal practices and international declarations," the decree said.

Beteta said the United States government was consulted before the decree was drawn. He said the decree did not violate the Mexican-United States commercial treaty.

Articles which no longer can be imported into Mexico, unless already enroute, are fresh and canned foods, furniture, refrigerators, washing machines crystal, rugs, clothing, socks and stockings, perfumes, cosmetics, advertising catalogues and calendars, radios, phonographs, automobiles, furs, jewels, velvets, wines and alcoholic drinks, wrapping paper, pictures and sculptures, antiques, pianos and clocks.

The most important American product banned was automobiles. Last year Mexico purchased approximately $60,000,000 worth of automobiles in the United States. Automobiles purchases for the first five months of 1947 were reported 50 per cent higher than last year's rate.

Tariff To Be Raised

Tariffs will be raised "in accordance with the increase of prices since 1942" on these items:

Canned fish, artificial fibers syrup, essential oils, electrolitic copper, locks, curtain rods, metal articles, lamps and lanterns, tin-alloy goods, calcium carbide, buttons, cigaret paper, felt hats, machetes and motorcycles.

The decree created a commission to enforce the restrictions. It said the government would take steps to enforce price controls on the embargoed products to prevent the growth of a black market in them.

ATOM SMASHUP YIELDS LAYOUT OF ODDITIES

Strange New Elements Created as California's Cyclotron Gets Workout.

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

PALO ALTO, Calif., July 11—A devastating smashup of the atom, yielding a whole layout of strange new transmuted elements, was reported today as the first formal achievement of the giant postwar cyclotron at the University of California.

This initial effort of the 4,000-ton concrete - caged mechanical monster opens the way for the production of upwards of 100 new radio-active elements for scientific research. At present there are about 450 radioactive and 275 stable forms of the conventional elements

For the first time on record an atom was extensively smashed by a man-made machine. Heretofore atom smashing has consisted of knocking one or two bits off the nucleus. Even an atom bomb explosion divides a nucleus into not more than five parts.

The cyclotron wrought havoc by hurling 200,000,000-volt bullets at atoms of arsenic. The arsenic nuclei were shattered into at least 22 and possibly as many as 30 pieces. At least 10 of these pieces were themselves elements of regular matter. At one stroke the big machine had turned one relatively heavy element into many different lighter elements, with some spare parts left over.

Report To Society

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Dr. Isadore Perlman, who were among the top researchers on the atom bomb, reported the work to the American Physical Society meeting at Stanford university. The experimenters included Dr. B. B. Cunningham, Dr. H. H. Hopkins, Dr. Manfred Linder, Dr. D. R. Miller, Dr. P. R. O'Conner and Dr. R. C. Thompson.

The hitherto unknown products of these operations will increase the versatility of atomic medicine and the various branches of research which use radioactive substances. The different forms of the elements mean different rates of radioactivity or different kinds of radiation.

For example, the first form of radioactive carbon, produced before the outbreak of World War II was radioactive for only a few minutes Experimenters in biological research sometimes failed because the radioactivity gave out before the biological process was completed. A radio-carbon of longer life solved their problem. The new elements from the cyclotron will solve other such problems.

Use Nuclei As Bullets

In one of the operations the experimenters used the nuclei of helium atoms for bullets. These nuclei were whirled around in the cyclotron chamber until they had the striking power of 400,-

Omit Housing, Vet Bond Bills

Measure Left Off G.O.P. List of Legislation To Press Before Quitting.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Measures providing for a long-range housing program and for immediate cash payment of terminal pay for veterans were omitted today from a list of legislation scheduled by senate Republican leaders for action before adjournment of congress July 26.

Chairman Taft (Ohio) of the senate Republican policy committee told reporters the G.O.P. leaders plan to try and push the $4,000,000,000 income tax-cutting bill and a cluster of delayed appropriations bills through the senate by Tuesday.

After that, he said, 10 measures regarded as "non-controversial" will be speeded to completion. Missing from this list were bills for housing, cash terminal pay for veterans, the St. Lawrence seaway project and increasing the national hourly minimum wage scale.

Still May Pass

But Taft, in answer to queries about these, said they may get congressional approval if it can be agreed to act "without long debate."

Taft outlined at a news conference the Republican plans agreed to at a strategy session of senate G.O.P. leaders last night.

Taft listed these measures for action following tax and appropriation legislation:

President Truman's reorganization plan No. 3 to establish a central housing and home finance agency. This was rejected June 18 by the house but the senate banking committee has recommended approval. Taft said he will support it. Both the senate and house must reject a presidential reorganization plan to defeat it.

SAYS TAX VETO TO BE UPHELD

Senate Democratic Whip Believes Chamber Can Sustain President.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Senator Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic whip, declared today the senate "definitely can sustain" President Truman's promised second veto of the $4,000,000,000 income tax reduction bill.

The party liner-upper also told reporters, however, he is not at all sure the senate will get a crack at overriding the Chief Executive.

"If (the veto) might be sustained in the house again," Lucas remarked.

The bill will come to a vote there first after its round-trip to the White House.

G.O.P. Thinks Differently

But Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican whip, said he feels "absolutely certain" the house will vote to override.

The house, which passed the first tax cut bill 273 to 137 but then failed by two votes to get the required two-thirds margin to override, re-passed the measure by a tally of 302 to 112.

As for the senate, Wherry said: "I thinks we have the votes."

Both Wherry and Lucas voiced hope the senate would reach a roll-call today.

Before the final decision, how-

ACCIDENT IS FATAL TO JOSEPH SABBACK

Marion Merchant's Skull Fractured by Falling Plaster.

Joseph Sabback, 66, of 381 East Church street died at City hospital at 3:15 a. m. today. He was brought to Marion at 8 p. m. yesterday from Magnetic Springs where he suffered a fractured skull when plaster fell from the porch roof of the Park hotel where he had been staying, relatives said. He had been staying at Magnetic Springs the last three weeks, and had visited Marion yesterday to attend to business. Mr. Sabback had been in the confectionary business in Marion the last 45 years. He operated the Sugar Bowl confectionery on East Church street.

Mr. Sabback and his brother, Michael, operated a confectionery on South Main street for a number of years. Later Joseph opened his store on East Church street.

MRS. ZORA GERBES MEETS DEATH IN STRANGLER'S HANDS

The quiet country churchyard of St. Paul's Lutheran church on route 98, five miles southeast of Marion, was turned into a grisly death scene this morning with the finding of the almost nude body of a 25-year-old Marion woman, strangled to death and trussed up with a clothes line.

The victim was Mrs. Zora Gerbes, 25, of 406 Lee street, divorced mother of three children.

The still-warm body was found shortly after 2 a. m. She had been dead about a half an hour, investigating officers said. The discovery was made by two Marion county youths who talked with the apparent slayer, not knowing at the time that a murder had been committed.

Question Man Today

As the search for the slayer was pressed today sheriff's officers this afternoon were arranging to take the two youths to a nearby town to question a man who is known to have been with the murder victim early Thursday afternoon.

Sheriff LeRoy Retterer said at noon today no other clues had been uncovered in a survey of beer parlors on North Main street and West Center street. No trace of the woman has been uncovered after 11 p. m. last night when she was seen alone in the Black Forest cafe on West Center street.

After an autopsy at the Smith Home for Funerals on East Center street this morning Dr. E. H. Morgan, county coroner, ruled the death as homicide, caused by strangulation with a rope clothesline. Dr. Frederick T. Merchant assisted Dr. Morgan with the autopsy.

Dr. Morgan said there was circumstantial evidence of criminal assault. He added the killing showed some evidence of having been committed by someone with sadistic tendencies. He did not elaborate on this point, however. He said the only marks on the body were bruises on the left leg and discoloration around the neck where the cord was tightly drawn.

Discovered by Brothers

First discovery of the murder was made by two brothers, Charles and Harry Yeager, who live east of St. Paul's church.

The brothers, Charles, 20, and Harry, 22, had been in Marion where they are employed in factories, and were returning home shortly after 2 a. m.

As their car turned from route 98 east on the Firstenberger road, east and west county highway, the headlights revealed a man who attempted to hide behind a machine parked in the church driveway. The Yeagers later told Sheriff Retterer they thought his actions were peculiar, stopped and watched for a moment, then backed their car until the lights again were thrown on the man.

Illuminated again, he tried to hide on the other side of the parked machine. The Yeagers said they then drove into the church yard, the lights making it impossible for the man to stay in hiding.

The youths told the sheriff the man, when his position was revealed, came to the side of their car. Appearing nervous he said, "There's my license number, what are you going to do about it?"

Lights Reveal Body

Headlights from the Yeager car also shone on the body of the woman, lying in the gravel driveway beside the car. Not realizing she was dead, the Yeagers told the man then we're "going to call the sheriff."

They related the man said, "All right, I'll wait for you."

Before the final conversation with the man both the Yeagers got out of their car but, they told the sheriff, they did not make a close inspection of the woman.

The Yeagers then drove to the Albert Ruth home, the nearest place a telephone was available, and called the sheriff's office. The Ruth home is a short distance east of the church on the Firstenberger road.

When the youths returned to the churchyard the man had driven away. The sheriff arrived at the scene at 2.35 a. m. He made the call alone, thinking the report from the Yeagers was about a drunken driver.

When the sheriff found the body he called Prosecuting Attorney James E. Reed, Dr. E. H. Morgan, coroner, and deputy sheriffs.

Caused by Strangulation

Dr. Morgan said death was due to strangulation. The sheriff reported a clothes line with a slip knot on one end had been placed three times around the victim's neck and pulled tight. It was then passed under her knees and tied with the knees pulled almost under her chin.

She was nude except for one shoe and a black and white checkered blouse. The blouse, buttoned down the front with large buttons, had torn at several places, indicating there had been a struggle.

The remainder of her clothing, consisting of the other shoe and a pair of green dungaree trousers, was found by investigators where it had been thrown over the church yard fence. Sheriff Retterer said the clothing was found by following a trail of footprints in the wet grass. Rain had fallen at the scene some time after midnight.

Investigators said the trousers had been turned wrong side out, indicating they had been torn violently from the woman.

Probably Killed Elsewhere

The body was found on the stone drive on the north side of the church, about 50 feet from route 98 and 15 feet from the church. The sheriff said bruises were found on her left leg but that first investigation revealed no other marks on the body. He said there was no evidence of a struggle at the scene indicating the slaying took place elsewhere before the body was dumped in the church driveway.

The Yeagers, before leaving the scene to call the sheriff, obtained the auto license number of the car. It was Q-4846. The sheriff said this number was issued in Marion to E. D. Young of Route 4, Marion. This rural route extends northeast of Marion as far as Kirkpatrick. Preliminary investigation failed to reveal any one by that name living on the route, the sheriff said.

The license was issued for a 1933 Chevrolet coupe. This checks with the description of the car given the sheriff by the Yeagers.

Description Given

The Yeagers described the man as being five feet, ten inches to six feet tall, dark haired and weighing about 190 pounds. They said he was wearing tan trousers with a blue jacket. He was without a hat.

Today sheriff's officers and Prosecutor Reed were attempting to trace the activities of Mrs. Gerbes after 8:30 p. m. last night. She left the residence at 406 Lee street, where she lived with her three children, her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Kellis, shortly before 8:30. She came to the downtown district, leaving a Yellow Taxi cab about 8:30 on North Main street.

Officers spent the morning

U. S. Already Shipping Arms To Greece on "Anti-Bandit" Basis

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Dwight Griswold chief of the American aid mission to Greece, said today military supplies valued at $35,000,000 already are en route to equip the Greek army and navy on an "anti-bandit" basis.

Griswold told a news conference the equipment now moving to U. S. ports for shipment is largely from United States army and navy surplus. It includes light mountain pack artillery, muels, food for troops, ammunition, and some trucks and jeeps.

Shipments of military supplies, scheduled to comprise half the $300,000,000 aid program, probably will continue into the fall, Griswold said.

Describing the efforts to maintain security as an essential part of economic recovery, Griswold said that "it would be hard to build a bridge and have it blown up right away."

"We believe the reconstruction program will help break up the guerrilla bands," he added.

In the first break-down of aid plans, Griswold said that it is proposed to spend about $19,000,000 for agricultural rehabilitation, $46,000,000 for rebuilding ports, highways and industry, $73,000,000 for food, clothing and other civilian goods, $3,000,000 to cope with malaria, tuberculosis and other health problems, and $1,500,000 to train Greek nationals. These amounts, Griswold said, represent contemplated dollar expenditures in foreign exchange. In addition, the aid proceeds are expected to consume about $75,000,000 in Greek drachma currency, ($15,000 U. S. money at official exchange rates) representing proceeds from sale of civilian goods.

Griswold reported also that contracts are being negotiated for rebuilding a bridge over the Corinth canal expected to cost about $1,500,000 (U. S. money) and for 13 small railway bridges. He said the contracts will have to be on a cost-plus basis and probably most will go to American firms.

Racing Program For Tonight Rained Out

Tonight's program of Little Grand Circuit harness racing at the Fairground has been postponed, Marion Trotting association officials announced early this afternoon.

Those races originally scheduled for tonight will be held Monday night, they said.

Tomorrow's program, featuring two stake races, will be held as scheduled.

Self-Taught Bulldog Carries Market Basket from Store for Marion Mistress

By MARY HERRING

The donning of hat or coat or just the act of picking up a grocery list is enough to send 9-year-old Joe, English bulldog owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Ganoe of 191 Windsor street, waddling for the market basket.

During the war all Mrs. Ganoe had to do was pick up a ration book and Joe was up and ready with the basket waiting for the door to be opened so he could start his trek to the market a few blocks away.

A familiar sight to neighbors, Joe has been unfailing in his self-appointed task of carrying groceries since he was a pup.

Mr. Ganoe, mechanic at Central fire station, said the whole thing started quite by accident with the dog carrying miscellaneous packages. Later he would grasp a small kitten belonging to a neighbor and holding it by the neck would carry the kitten down to his bed in the cellar of the Ganoe house. There he would play with and lick the kitten much as a mother cat does.

Kitten His Friend

At that time Joe was just about six months old and had a rather difficult time getting the kitten's feet off the floor far enough to carry it. The two grew up and played together until the families moved apart.

When Joe started his daily walks to the store he began carrying single packages in his mouth. One day Mrs. Ganoe started from the store with the loaded basket and got as far as the door when she returned to get another article she had forgotten. She sat the basket on the floor and when she returned to the store entrance again there was Joe grasping the handle of the loaded basket in his mouth waiting for the door to be opened.

The container at first was only an ordinary market basket. Later when the dog made it known he was the official carrier, Mrs. Ganoe purchased a round basket with shorter handle and padded the center of the handle to keep the edges from cutting the dog's mouth.

Weighs 55 Pounds

The brindle-colored bulldog now weighs 55 pounds and can handle a good sized load. The clerk at the store weighed the loaded basket once to see just how much the dog was carrying. The load weighed 12½ pounds.

Mr. Ganoe said that a stranger doesn't dare try to get the basket away from the dog and even other animals can't interfere with the daily task. Joe simply ignores them and pads on home.

The family have never tried to train the dog and although he will come from the store to the house alone, they have never tried to send him to the store on his own. Mr. Ganoe said some years ago when he was on duty at one of the other fire stations, he would take Joe to the store, get the groceries then send the canine messenger home with the loaded basket while he went to work.

The family makes use of the dog's ability to carry things in the home too by sending him either up or down stairs with some item to give to some other person in another part of the house, thus saving unnecessary steps.

The phrase "let Joe bring it" is almost as well known in the Ganoe household as "pass the bread."

The route to the store is north on Windsor to West Church street, then west one block to Blaine avenue. The dog rarely misses a trip and even though he may have been tagging Mr. Ganoe around, the minute Mrs. Ganoe starts for the store Joe deserts his master in favor of the store - going mistress.

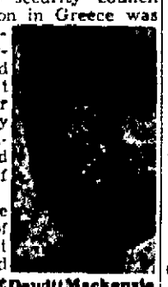
Gromyko's Timing at UN Bad In View of Greek Red Revolt Plot

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The Greek government's announcement of a Communist plot to overthrow the Athens regime acquires special significance from the fact that a few hours earlier Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Gromyko had charged before the United Nations security council that the situation in Greece was due to Anglo-American interference and had demanded that the UN order foreign military personnel (meaning U. S. and British) off Greek soil.



DewittMackenzie

It was in the pre-dawn of Wednesday that Greek police and military made swift raids which netted close to 3,000 people who were charged with plotting rebellion against the state. Many important Communists reportedly had fled to the mountains or were in hiding. Officials stated that all those arrested would have hearings and that those implicated probably would be exiled on the numerous islands off the Greek coast in the Aegean. The zero hour for the coup is said to have been 1 a. m. yesterday.

Wonders About Gromyko

One wonders whether Gromyko would have delivered exactly the same speech if he had known that the Greek police were to swing into action against the Reds a few hours later. Anyway, the Soviet delegate's attack on America and Britain and his defense of Communism in the Balkans provided another Gromyko drama for the security council at Lake Success.

The occasion was a debate on the majority report of the Balkan investigating commission of the security council. This report was based on study of the situation on the spot. It placed responsibility for fomenting disorders in Greece upon the neighboring states of Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria—all Communized and satellites of Moscow.

Gromyko said the Greek government was the guilty party, and he demanded that the council reverse the findings of the commission and rule that Greece was guilty of causing disturbances in Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria. He declared that Russia couldn't accept an American proposal for the establishment of a semi-permanent UN watch along the borders in question.

Doesn't Quote Figures

Mr. Gromyko didn't say how many foreign military he claimed to be on Greek soil. However, a Greek source said there were only about 6,000, mostly British. The rest were American training troops.

But that wasn't all that the Soviet representative had to say. He also called for United Nations supervision of all economic aid to Greece. This was calculated to put the American program of direct support under international control.

The effect of Gromyko's fiery proposals of course must be to delay the security council in making a decision regarding the investigation commission's report. Any delay of this sort obviously would be of advantage to the Red elements which have been aiming at the establishment of a Soviet in Greece. It would permit continuance of such tactics as have been employed by Red elements along the frontiers of Greece's northern neighbors.

The discovery of the plot in Athens presumably has put a dent in the Communist program, but it isn't likely to halt the Red drive. Because of Greece's strategic politico-military position she has been marked down for Communization—and the only thing which can block it is outside intervention. Greece isn't yet capable of defending herself.

Upper Sandusky Family Hit by Triple Jinx

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 11 — Accidents come in threes is more than an old saying now to the H. L. Mason family in Upper Sandusky. Three of their five children were injured recently.

Three-year-old Mary suffered a fractured ankle when hit by a service truck in the driveway at the Mason home. A few days later, Kathleen, 7, sustained a broken arm when she fell from her bicycle. While Mrs. Mason was with Kathleen at a Columbus hospital, James, 14, thrust a pitch fork through his ankle while working on a farm near here. Mrs. Mason has asked the other sons, John, 16, and Dale, to be very careful, at least until the others recover. Mr. Mason is chairman of the state public utilities commission, is also proceeding with caution in his travels.

Solon Dizzy After Explanation Of Unsalable Food, High Prices

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

...TON, July 11—You ladies noticed any slash lately in ... of peas? I thought so.

... day to shed a tear for the boys who find them... 000 cases of canned vegetables they can't sell, a ... up and nobody ... to buy.

... to be only one ... the government to ... the representa... ers, the canners ... sale grocers came ... committee of the ... to go, they said, ... department and ... department to send ... to the hungry in ...

... experts so far have ... claim a can of to... ...stances, is mostly ... spend the money ... aboard"

Europe Needs Vitamins

... goods fellows said ... need vitamins from ... vegetables as much as ... from wheat. They said ... the government doesn't ... some of the millions of ... a farmer will go ... many a cannery, too)

and that'll be the start of a depression

Rep. August H Andresen of Minnesota, wondered if any of the boys had thought about cutting prices of peas (which seem to be in greatest surplus) here at home

'Oh yes," replied William M D'Miller, secretary of the Co-operative Food Distributors of America, Chicago, a typical witness 'Prices have been reduced. But the people insist on the fancy stuff and they won't buy the standard grades"

This caused Rep William S. Hill of Colorado to explode Or perhaps 'erupt' is the better word

"Let's See Figures"

"I'd like to see the ads on those reduced prices,' he shouted 'So my wife can get 'em How do you figure the cost of Living is going up, if the price of these foods is going down"

D'Miller tried to sooth him. Rep Hill was having none of it He charged that grocers advertised low prices on canned goods, but always were fresh out when Mrs Hill tried to buy

'And it isn't only canned goods," he said 'Why, one store advertised lamb at 15 cents a pound and when I went in to get some I had to pay 65 cents a pound for it.'

The suave D'Miller, wearing a checked suit, a large diamond ring, and heavy-rimmed eyeglasses, said he was sorry but he didn't know about meat. Only canned goods And the warehouses in his association has so many cans of peas, string beans, cut beets, sauerkraut and sweet potatoes on hand they intend to buy no more for the next eight to 14 months

Rep Andresen wasn't convinced He ordered D'Miller to produce a list of current prices of canned goods for study by the lawmakers

The witnesses kept coming. A thousand acres of string beans have been plowed under in Louisiana because the canners wouldn't buy. Spinach is rotting in the Norfolk, Va., area, and tomatoes in Maryland.

'Tomatoes are being plowed into the ground right now, said Dr. T B Symons, director of the extension service of the University of Maryland

"But I paid 35 cents a pound for Maryland tomatoes only last week,' protested Rep Andresen.

'Ah yes' replied Dr Symons 'Lovely tomatoes, from our Maryland hot houses But field tomatoes, no There is no market for them

This was hard for Rep Andresen to understand He could use a few pounds and so, I think, could I. If we could afford 'em, that is

Real Secret of War: To Have What You Need

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK, July 11—Let's look at the so-called military secret that depends upon [illegible] like a man leaning [illegible] on a hot day. It will [illegible] up forever.

The [illegible] of safeguarding [illegible] from the nations [illegible] to see what we [illegible] sleeve has been [illegible]

Hal Boyle

[illegible] is another axiom you [illegible] accept about any military [illegible] more people know [illegible] than the top leader has [illegible] of. Their mouths in [illegible] undo the work of all [illegible] and fences.

Scores Told D-Day

[illegible] General Eisenhower should [illegible] now, for example, that [illegible] key command personnel [illegible] in advance that we were [illegible] land in Normandy in [illegible], he would be entertaining an illusion. Scores were [illegible] didn't even want to [illegible] officers for whom the [illegible] as simply too big to hold [illegible] their friends.

[illegible] business of military security is always a tragi-comedy of error and terror. Professional soldiers, like civilians, are prone to become careless or talk out of turn. And particularly in rear area headquarters.

I remember after the landing in Sicily the dramatic relief of a young headquarters officer who for six months had lived in mortal fear that he would spill his knowledge of that operation, learned inadvertently six months before at the Casablanca conference.

Learns Sicily Secret

One midnight he saw a document absent-mindedly left behind by a general in one of the conference rooms. He stepped over and at a glance saw its significance—a landing by the Allies in Sicily in July. He phoned the general who came down hurriedly in his bathrobe.

"Someone left a paper on the table, sir," the young officer said tactfully.

"Has anyone seen this?" demanded the panicky general. The oversight might have cost him a promotion. The young officer played it smart.

"No, sir!" he said. But he never drew a serene breath until we hit Sicily.

WACs Come Through

Incidentally, WAC personnel who did the secretarial work on both the Sicilian and Salerno operations proved women can hold a secret—at least in waretime—as well as men. No breach of security ever was laid to them.

Army leaders sometime give away the information they want to hide by trying to be overly subtle. Before the North African landings, for example, the officers attempted to plant the idea in correspondents' heads that we would strike into Norway. They needlessly emphasized the severe climate we were going into, and made a great gabble over the cold weather clothing we would need.

And then, as we marched off, we looked up and saw by a corridor sign that we were in the section of the war department dealing with the Mediterranean and North Africa! So we were right in the middle of that secret before even leaving the building.

Incidentally, one officer reportedly left the plans for the African landings in a Washington drugstore, but retrieved his briefcase before Berlin, could hotfoot an agent to the scene.

Of course, foreign spies don't usually get their information from such obvious blunders. They learn more from bought or wagging tongues.

Although his officers often were afraid he would disclose his plans too soon, General Patton had a pretty healthy idea on military security. He observed precautions, but he never expected a secret to win a battle for him.

Few secrets do win wars. You still win wars by the old southern cavalry principle of "getting that fustest with the mostest" of whatever you think will stun the enemy, whether you hit him with a pseudo-secret atom bomb or a handy crowbar.

The enduring secret of warfare is to have what it takes in the right place when you need it. No other secret brings victory.

Council To Discuss Plans for Repairs

Special to The Star

GALION, July 11 — "Galion's municipal light and power plant was a war casualty," City Council President Otto Pfeifer declared today. "It was over-worked during the war, with no time out for repairs and improvements; and that is why it has had to resort to surgery in the past two weeks," he said. Pfeifer is calling a special meeting of City Council for Friday night for the purpose of considering legislation to bring in extra power through the plant until necessary repairs and improvements have been made to the Galion plant to produce enough power for Galion factories to expand, and so that another costly shut-down of industry will not occur in the future.

Last week, according to a prearranged plan between city officials and manufacturers, 2,500 Galion factorymen were given a vacation so improvements could be completed at the light plant. Due to extra work that was found necessary and replacement of several parts at the plant, power had to be reduced again this week and gave 1,500 workers another week's vacation.

Magazine Names U. S. Best-Dressed Men

By The United Press

NEW YORK, July 11—The best dressed men of the 1947 summer season were named yesterday by the Mayfair magazine fashion guild.

The selections:

Secretary of State George C. Marshall, motion picture actor Alan Ladd, radio singer Jack Smith, Bing Crosby, Eddie Rickenbacker, tennis star Jack Kramer, hosiery executive Frank Burd, radio commentator, Tex McCrary, Nelson Rockefeller and James C. Petrillo, the music czar.

EUROPEAN STAR WITH CIRCUS COMING HERE. If, as the song says, "a pretty girl is like a melody," then there's music in the air these days under the big top of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey circus which is coming to Marion Friday, July 18, at the Drake showgrounds.

That's because Europe's greatest aerialist, pretty Rose Gould, shown above, is making her American debut to the plaudits of circus spectators the length and breadth of the land.

She's a poem of gymnastic precision and she headlines a host of aerial daredevils who perform in the vast dome of the world's biggest "big top" and nearly all are new this season. Circus agents scoured the four corners of the earth in search of new thrill acts and novelties and their efforts have resulted in a huge crop of acts never seen before in North America.

Shop Employment Shows Gain Here

Marion industrial employment rose during June, according to a business report published in the July bulletin of the Chamber of Commerce. The number of persons employed in June was 9,986. In May the figure was 9,953. The figure for June this year was 202 over the same month last year when 9,784 were employed in Marion industries. No relief cases were listed for June this year.

Bank debits for June were $28,927,318 as compared with $29,819,415 for May. Postal receipts were $21,551 for June and $21,135 for May.

Collusion Is an Ugly Word

UNION leaders ranted and raved against the Taft-Hartley act, but it's coal operators who have violated it first, according to Representative Hartley, its co-author.

Hartley says the UMW contract clauses providing for checkoff of union levies other than dues is a violation of the provision that says only dues can be deducted and then only with an employe's consent. He also believes a provision requiring miners to work only when "able and willing" is a weasel-worded subterfuge to keep their union from being responsible for illegal work stoppages.

There is evidence of collusion between mine operators and union bosses to violate both the spirit and letter of the Taft-Hartley act. Parenthetically, if Senator Taft wants to deny this it so, it must be for some reason other than his obligation to defend a law he helped to write.

The plan of this law was to curb the excesses of labor monopolists by defining the rights of wage earners in relations with unions. One of these was the right to draw full pay, with no unauthorized deductions and only one authorized deduction—dues payable to the union. But there were to be no fines and assessments held out. It was to be illegal for John Lewis to assess his union's members for a political slush fund, or the formation of some new union in another industry. The aim was to protect union members from high-handed misappropriations of members' wages.

The coal operators, to appease Mr. Lewis, have ignored this safeguard. They have signified that as far as they're concerned miners are entitled to no protection under the new labor-management act. They have signified that as far as they're concerned the individual rights of workers are of no importance compared with the rights of the labor monopolist who tells the coal industry what it must do to keep him from wrecking the United States by calling a strike. That's the way the wind is blowing. Collusion is an ugly word, especially when one of the parties to it has no other choice.

Unifying the Services

SENATE debate has begun on the armed services unification bill, with indications the measure will become law before congress adjourns. While the bill isn't the bold consolidated measure at first envisioned and so passionately opposed by the Navy, it at least is a start toward unified command.

Fortunately, the measure has been kept on a nonpartisan basis and such opposition as there is seems centered in no particular quarter. The Army wants it and the Navy has agreed to it after making certain it was unification and not merger that was contemplated.

Essentially, what the bill would do is set up a GHQ comparable to the top command of the prewar Army. At one time the Army was made up of a collection of near-autonomous arms and services, each jealous of its rights and prerogatives. It was a long, stubborn fight making the Army's top brass realize they were all part of the same team. Now the same fight has moved to a higher level. The unification bill is but one step in a campaign which was carried out within the Army itself years ago.

Czechoslovakia Regrets

CZECHOSLOVAKIA has received its instructions from Moscow. It will not participate in the European economic conference opening Saturday in Paris. This virtually completes the boycott of the conference by nations within the Russian orbit. Only Albania and Finland are still to be heard from and they aren't likely to accept either.

Czechoslovakia's answer reflects the precise shading of Russia's attitude. It had been thought the Czechs might be allowed to participate in the Marshall plan, that Russia's "no" might not be irrevocable.

Guided by that astute statesman, Eduard Benes, the Czechs have unsuccessfully pursued a middle course in postwar Europe. They possessed political freedom, efficient administrative services and are fairly well on their way to prosperity. Their requested $250,000,000 World bank loan, plus the Marshall plan benefits, would have materially speeded their progress. Now they find themselves shut off from western aid.

An industrious, progressive people caught between two conflicting worlds, Czechoslovakia is a buffer state. As Jan Masaryk once said, "Czechoslovakia is the bridge between East and West—and you know what people use bridges for."

Did You Know?

There are about 200,000 physicians in the United States, about three-quarters of whom are in active practice.

A sausage made from soybean and skim milk formed the mainstay of the German Army diet during the recent war.

The United States is the only major country whose ability to produce a food supply has always outstripped its growth in population.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

No Mystery About Farley's Story.

WASHINGTON, July 11 —A columnist has dashed off Jim Farley for his memoirs in a fast way. The columnist speaks of the original Roosevelt manager with round, even words of justice and objectivity, but, in the end completely removes the Farley character. He says Lincoln's son held the liberator's secrets for 82 years. But first, Don Elliott wrote a book, and now comes Mr. Farley with a book which "goes even farther" in relating intimate conversations after only two years. "This is very sad," says the columnist "I greatly fear the contrast in reticence does not reflect any too well on the state of political morality in our time." With literary deftness, he divests Farley of the character by which everyone knew him —"genial, able, shrewd politician" —and presents him as a character out of the awful Republican Chicago Tribune, because a Tribune reporter ghosted the memoirs.

This is all mixed up.

Farley is not Roosevelt's son. Elliott is. But Elliott's book is old and not now under discussion. Elliott's was giddy insulting to many officials like Churchill, was not written by anyone claiming an official position to permit him to write officially, and concerned everything.

Different Motives

Farley is telling what he—he himself mostly—did and said in his own business and official job as political manager, and what others did and said to him. Elliott wrote his to make money. Farley to clear his name. Elliott's was a scandalous expose without real knowledge or authority. Jim's an official memoir of a job.

Further, neither is dealing with official state secrets of a president from his personal papers. Roosevelt's private papers are still in his secret file and not even a congressional committee could get into them. Comparison with Lincoln's family papers is illogically besmirching. Lincoln officials wrote fully about him promptly. Library basements are full of Nicolai and Hay (Lincoln's own secretaries), Grant's memoirs, and many others.

The columnist does not ask if the Farley account is true. He just suggests Farley lacks morality to a greater extent that Elliott (political morality, that is), because Farley tells it now instead of waiting 82 years as Todd Lincoln did with something else. Farley could justly be subjected to exactly the opposite criticism. In public welfare and interest, why did he wait 10 years to talk?

The columnist creates some dubious mystery about Farley, immorally not waiting 82 years, as if to suggest (the columnist did not even hint this but others are boldly saying it), that Farley stabbed Roosevelt in the back. There was no mystery and no stabbing to anyone who was there at the time. What happened was quite simple, namely this:

Farley's Loyalty

Mr. Roosevelt was stringing Farley along, in order to get a third term. Farley was more gullible and more easily strung than the reporters at that time, for instance, because he insisted on preserving his loyalty to Roosevelt and his exceptional loyalty to the Democratic party. Thus, although opposed to a third term, he made his opposition only nominal and stood aside (or was pushed aside) at the convention, merely saving his own good and unquestioned name. Roosevelt knew Farley would not speak out or act up until too late to do anything. Thus Roosevelt engineered Farley into becoming an ineffective opponent of the third term, because Farley was a good natured man with scruples.

The Farley story actually shows, directly from the inside, how Roosevelt seized the third term nomination from the bulk of the party leaders, who were opposed or reluctant, some of whom thereafter went away.

The ghosting was done by Walter Trohan, who is a more distinguished journalist than usually is obtained for this type of work. (They usually get a political hack). He simply tells Farley's story as Farley wanted it told, without campaigning. Anyway, no one has raised the spectre of literary morality previously against ghosting as Messrs. Rosenman, Cohen, and Corcoran are waiting presumably the whole 82 years to tell the truth.

The political morality of our time, indeed, would seem to involve the commentating thereof.

Through the West With Gun and Motive

New York's Governor Dewey is making what he insists is a non-political tour of the west.

Take off that tourist's demeanor, we know you, Tom. The genuine sightseer has an eye on the scenery rather than an ear to the ground.

Anything Dewey does between now and the G.O.P. convention will be as non-political as an election-day cigar. Thus, when he goes west, you can be sure he is following, not Greeley's advice, but that of his board of strategy.

The Republicans have a rule against renominating a defeated candidate and Tom is out to be the exception which proves it.

Incidentally, if one has any idea that Dewey's western tour is really non-political, pictures of him accepting honorary membership in an Indian tribe will shortly be along to allay it.

Meanwhile, his swing through the midwest has already disproved one long-held Republican conviction . . . that it is impossible to invade Chicagoland without a permit from Colonel McCormick.

Among the Rare Books

By JANE EADS

MOST visitors to the rare book division of the Library of Congress want to see the $1,500,000 Gutenberg Bible, or they ask for the book bound in human skin, or the largest tome, or the smallest tome in the collection.

Chief Frederick R. Goff who says the division is doing a bigger business now than it ever did before the war, would rather talk about something else for a change.

He takes you behind the scenes —into the air-conditioned cells where some 200,000 volumes, valued at at least $10,000,000 are carefully piled on shelves.

He pulls out a big heavy volume bound in white pigskin with brass bosses and clasps, and a lock and big chain. It was printed in Venice, Sept. 10, 1488.

Books were rare in those days and some folks used to chain them down. Goff says this book and others like it must be forerunners of the chain-bound telephone book found in hotel lobbies.

Goff begins thumbing through a volume of heraldry printed in 1483, which contains the coats of arms of all the European notables who attended the Council of Constance.

He seems proudest of a book printed by William Caxton. He was a rich man who at the instance of Margaret of Burgundy set up his own press in 1475 at Westminster. He had a hobby of translating many French romances into English and was the first printer to concentrate on publishing books in the vernacular.

The library has 13 Caxton books, of which 11 are from the Lessing J. Rosenwald collection of rare books presented to the division in 1943.

The rare book collection was started about 20 years ago, when books that couldn't be classified along with the general run were kept in the office of the librarian.

The collection has increased fivefold since those days, but the books that have been added were selected "not because they were rare, unique, or curious so much as because they mark a milestone in man's intellectual development."

The division receives more than 1,000 letters a year from people who think they have something rare the library would like to buy, or to ask questions.

Lost Drivers' Licenses

From The National Underwriter

A SURVEY by the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators shows 318,000 motorists lost their privilege to drive in 1946 for drunken and reckless driving, failure to comply with safety responsibility laws and other law violations. This is the first time that nationwide totals have been made public on driver license suspensions and revocations. They were compiled from official reports made to the association by its members.

The survey shows that the period of license suspension ranges from three days to life, and the average for the country last year was 45 days. Almost a fourth of the total resulted from license suspensions required by new responsibility laws where drivers involved in accidents failed to show proof of financial responsibility.

Of the remainder, by far the most frequent cause for suspension reported was drunken driving. In a typical state, for example, 3,532 licenses were suspended or revoked, of which 1,585 grew out of convictions of drunken driving, 11 in cases of involuntary manslaughter and 1,619 from miscellaneous violations, including mandatory suspensions arising from safety responsibility law. Drunken driving, the survey shows, is on the increase, and the total number of suspensions and revocations is expected to be greater this year than last.

In one western state, several drivers lost their licenses in 1946 because they were found to be addicted to drinking, although none had been convicted of drunken driving. Forty states now have laws providing for reciprocal exchange of driver records so that action taken against a visitor becomes effective in his home state as well. In one southern state last year, an out-of-state driver convicted of drunken driving was found to have had 28 previous convictioins in his home bailiwick. The license revocation became effective in both states.

In about one-third of the states, efforts are made to deal with accident-prone cases through driver clinics and in other ways with a view of eliminating such difficulties as physical defects, bad eyesight, or inadequate knowledge of traffic laws and the mechanics of driving, with a view to restoring the privilege of driving.

STALIN'S INTERPRETATION OF THOSE DISKS

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, July 11, 1937.

The mercury reached an official high of 93 as a heat wave continued to scorch the nation. Sixteen hundred persons thronged Crystal Lake to register the largest crowd of the season. One of the bathers, whose name was not learned by attendants, was pulled from the water by James C. Woods Jr., 20, of 293 Lafayette street, after he had gone down for the second time.

Curtis L. Dobbins, 74, retired farmer, died at his home on Franklin street.

Miss Arlene Paddock and Franklin E. Pump Jr. were married at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Merchant on Blaine avenue, by Rev. Lawrence A. Wood, pastor of Trinity Baptist church.

C. B. King, 75, retired Marion hardware dealer and member of one of the county's most prominent families, died at his home on East Center street. He was a brother of Mrs. Warren G. Harding and the home where he died was the old family home purchased by their father, Amos H. Kling, soon after it was built and considered one of the finest of Marion's old residences.

Covers were placed for more than 50 at a basket supper when Marion Typographical Union No. 675 met for its sixth annual picnic as Seccalum park.

M. George Clemenceau, famous wartime premier of France, was able to be up after being confined to his bed for five days with an attack of bronchitis.

Two tourists from foreign countries were among visitors at the Harding home on Mt. Vernon avenue. The two, traveling together, were business men, one from Ireland and one from Australia. They were enroute to Melbourne, Australia and stopped here to see the Harding home and tomb.

Atomic Problem Unsolved

Russia-U.S. Still at Odds in UN Parleys.

By FRANCIS W. CARPENTER
Associated Press Writer

LAKE SUCCESS, July 11 — The second report of the United Nations atomic energy commission to the United Nations security council will deal principally with the organization and function of a worldwide atomic control agency.

It will do little toward smoothing over Russian-United States differences.

These predictions came from authoritative sources as the atomic delegates began meeting regularly to discuss that second report, which must be handed in before the general assembly meets in September.

The first report, given to the security council last Dec. 31, was written at the insistence of Bernard M. Baruch, who soon afterward resigned as the United States member of the atomic commission.

The December report dealt principally with safeguards under which atomic control could be set up. Soviet Russia and Poland refused to go along with the 10 other members of the commission in approving it.

Balk at Veto Waiver

They balked chiefly at provisions for waiving the veto on atomic punishments.

The basic disagreements have not changed in the intervening months. There is no indication whether Russia and Poland will sign the second report once it is completed, but at least their representatives are taking prominent parts in the current discussions.

There is a good reason for this Soviet interest. The two main committees of the commission, the working committee and the political committee, both have Soviet proposals on their agenda and the Soviet delegation is anxious for the delegates to consider them thoroughly.

Fernand Van Langenhove, Belgian delegate to the security council and to the atomic commission, is chairman of the commission this month. Indications are that the UN secretariat feels it is about time for Van Langenhove to start the commission work on the second report.

For several weeks informal groups of the commission have been working on papers dealing with technical aspects of atomic control. These documents represent the individual views of the delegates and not the opinions of the governments.

United States delegates have joined in the talks of the informal groups and have contributed a great deal to them.

Russians Hold Aloof

Soviet Russian representatives have held aloof from these groups. There have been Soviet intimations that these informal bodies are wasting time.

But Francois De Rose, of the French delegation, who has coordinated the work of these informal groups, said recently that he feels they have done considerable good.

It is expected that these unofficial papers will play a part in the drafting of the second report.

The United States delegation feels that some work must begin soon on a treaty setting up atomic controls, even if it is just a start. However, the concensus among the delegates is that there still is a great deal to be done before they reach the treaty stage.

There is little hope that anything can be done toward starting on a treaty by the time the second report is handed to the security council.

Hanging over the hard-working delegates is the realization that no matter what they do they have not yet, after more than a year, succeeded in finding a common ground for the United States and Russia on the atomic problem.

NEW YORK—Motorists going abroad may drive their cars aboard ship by a convenient ramp gangplank and park their automobiles in a seagoing garage aboard the M. S Batory of the Gdynia American Line. On docking on the other side of the Atlantic, the cars can be driven ashore, without benefit of unloading machinery.

"Ain't that funny about all them flying disks?

"Yes, wouldn't you think Truman would've decontrolled 'em by this time? Have you seen any?"

"No, but I'll be awful nervous until that bill shall plan is accepted and everybody agrees to stop 'em."

"They say they go 1,200 miles an hour. I just saw some over the Tandberg-Baksi zone where one has a plebiscite in Marzani just outside Bolinca."

"I don't see why them Russians don't come on a plan to ground them like everybody else. Even Henry Wallace favors going that far."

"What do you think of Jim Farley's memoirs?"

"I read they would make more money for Stymie but that Assault would pass 'em out before the summer is over."

"That Taft-Heartless bill got through, didn't it. What do you think of it?"

"It might be okay even if the Big Three don't act on it. I didn't like the section that freed hotel rooms from the United Nations rates but I guess Ford had to put Padway back to work in the dispute with the foremen over coal so maybe everything will come out fairly well."

"Did you read where up in Boston they convicted that fellow who broadcast for the Nazis?"

"Oh, yeah, Bugsy Seigel. It serves him right but I think they should get the gangsters who shot the jury."

• • •

"The world is in terrible shape. Pravda has just quit another meeting in Paris and things are so bad Babe Didrikson may have to form a new cabinet in Greece over them Venice meetings."

"What's the trouble in Venice anyhow?"

"It's all about the fire being worth more in the mountains where the Stern gang is. Franco wants the coal operators to give in on the demands but some feller named Jacques Duclos is holding out."

• • •

"I wish everybody would get together and control the atomic bomb. All the big men are for it, Baruch, Hoover, Frankie Shea, Ted Williams, Stassen, Mel Ott and all of 'em."

"Maybe they will do it at the Paris meeting July 12, now that Dewey has gone there with his two sons."

"If they all act sensible they should do it on the first ballot."

"Gee, do you think there will be another war?"

"Yeah, and with Mrs. Roosevelt still unable to settle the Chinese war! Who do you think is strongest now, the Western world or the Eastern?"

"Well, you know the old saying that whichever is out ahead on July 4 will wind up winner in September."

Give Us Time

By TRUMAN TWILL

One of the best things about matters of no importance, this column's specialty, is the way they scare off serious-minded customers.

No one ever backs us up in a corner to talk about blasting the daylights out of malefactors or taking a strong stand for or against sin. All the steady customers know that sort of stuff is out of the Twill line, and steady customers are the only kind we have. A reader either goes for these inconsequentialities or lets them alone.

Among the steadies there's no lack of ideas for columns that could be written some day. They are always mentioning—that is, those who see us from time to time are always mentioning—things that could be "written up" as they phase it.

We could write up the way somebody's wife does something cute, the trouble women have with slips getting caught in zippers on their dresses, the fact shoestrings always break at the most inopportune time, ghastly designs in men's neckties, stupid things that happen on audience participation shows on the radio;

The way streamlined automobiles are built for midgets to sit in the back seat, the studied sloppiness of costumes favored by high school girls, the universal custom of listening to broadcasts of baseball games, the trouble people have with all kinds of folding chairs, incredible things people will take pictures of, crazy antics of automobile drivers;

The acutely-overcrowded condition of 99 out of 100 refrigerators, the inability of a nation that can make dependable airplanes to make either a dependable pencil or pen, flower arrangements, bad manners in public places, uproarious things (that aren't uproarious the next day) that happen at parties, flagrant examples of profiteering;

Mistakes speakers make when their tongues get twisted, the national custom of fighting over close plays in all games that kids play, the dumb things politicians say and do, the weather, the current rage for convertible automobiles, the incredible comeback of windshield visors for cars that were streamlined to get rid of them, goofy things that happen in movies, incidents in restaurants, failure of public school education to teach boys and girls how to express themselves in either writing or speaking, things wrong with food, behavior of children, the mild insanities that afflict women who concentrate too much on housekeeping, the battle over the Sunday paper, how not to make coffee and the endless quest of baldheaded men for something that will grow hair.

Be patient, readers. Give us time. So far this column has only scratched the surface of subjects of no importance. There still are a million things that can be written about, to keep us from stuff of extreme importance from making psychopathic cases of all of us.

Evicted, Packs Up House and Moves

By The Associated Press

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—When carpenter Jesse Young got an eviction notice, he went down cellar and built himself a new house out of Army surplus trunk crates.

In two months the story-and-a-half dwelling was ready to be set up for housekeeping.

When it came time to move, Young and a son, Frank, who is a mechanic, loaded the floors, walls and other parts of the new house onto a truck.

It took two hours to put the house together. Six more hours to put on the finishing touches.

Modeled after an English cottage, the house has two rooms and a bath downstairs with enough space to make upstairs rooms.

LEWIS HAS 2ND FAT CONTRACT

Agreement Gives Hard Coal Miners Substantial Pay Raise.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—John L Lewis gleefully tucked another fat contract in his pocket today giving 75,000 hard coal miners the same $1.20-a-day pay boost he had wangled for 400,000 soft coal diggers.

Disclosure of the agreement came with surprising suddenness last night after only a few hours of negotiations between the United Mine Workers chief and representatives of the anthracite industry.

It gave added point to a discussion by President Truman and his full cabinet today of whether coal wage concessions mean a new wage-price spiral.

No Problem Seen

The President's three-man council of economic advisers is reported to have taken the view that the boosts do not pose a serious inflationary threat.

The council's chairman, Edwin G Nourse, summed up the group's analysis in a mid-year economic report and said the cabinet would consider the findings at its weekly meeting.

Lewis obtained a 44½-cent hourly wage increase for soft coal miners and a 17.1-cent raise for anthracite miners.

The difference comes from a reduction in the soft coal miner's working day from nine to eight hours and absorption in his basic hourly rate of daily work for which he formerly received premium pay.

$1.20 Daily Raise

Actually, both the bituminous and anthracite miners got an increase in the daily wages they will take home of $1.20 a day. On the soft coal eight-hour day this figures out to exactly 15 cents an hour, or the same amount CIO unions won in steel and other industries.

For the seven-hour day worked by the hard coal miner the $1.20 pay increase is 17.1 cents an hour.

But Lewis succeeded also in boosting his union's health and welfare fund "take" in both bituminous and anthracite from a nickel a ton of coal produced to a dime a ton.

That new labor law provides for equal labor-management administration of union welfare funds except those set up in contracts already in effect when the law was enacted.

The family lived in Sandusky and had gone to North Bay, Ontario, with relatives on a vacation trip. Mr. Merkle was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Merkle of 472 North Main street.

CONSUMER'S CREDIT CURBS WIN APPROVAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Legislation extending controls on consumer installment buying through Dec. 31 but requiring more liberal credit terms was approved 6 to 4 today by the senate banking committee.

The house banking committee has voted to eliminate such controls, currently in effect under a presidential executive order.

The resolution approved by the senate committee would prohibit the federal reserve board from fixing less than a 24-month period for paying for consumer goods on credit.

All such goods now covered by the board's regulation "W" must be paid for in at least 15 months.

A committee official told newsmen that under the proposed extension of controls it would be up to the board to decide whether 24 months or some longer period would be the maximum.

The resolution also prohibits the board from requiring a down payment of more than 20 per cent. At present 20 per cent is required for furniture, but a down payment of one-third is required on installment buying of automobiles, refrigerators, stoves, washing machines and other consumer items.

Marriner Eccles, chairman of the board, had urged the committee to extend credit controls through July 31, 1948.

ATOM

000,000 volts and, then were turned against a target of uranium atoms. They produced fission of a different kind than in the atom bomb. The breakdown products included two kinds of radium and a form of astatine, which is element number 85 in the regular periodic table.

Seaborg and Perlman said the energy developed by the cyclotron was approximately ten times that of the most powerful cyclotron previously in operation.

The smashing effects reported are similar in some respects to the shattering of atoms by low energy cosmic rays. These rays, however, are still more devastating than anything man has produced. They can blast a nucleus into many parts including mesotrons, which are mysterious factors in the makeup of atomic nuclei.

Dr Ernest O. Lawrence builder of the cyclotron, has predicted that the machine eventually will produce bullets with energies up to one billion volts, giving scientists something more nearly approaching cosmic rays in atom-smashing ability.

Potato Shortage Seen To Plague Government

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—The Lowly potato may cause the government another headache this year.

There's a shortage in prospect. Last year there were too many spuds.

The agriculture department has forecast this year's production at 351,000,000 bushels. This is about 125,000,000 bushels less than were produced last year and about 25,000,000 bushels less than the country requires each year for food, planting and other purposes.

By The Associated Press

MANSFIELD, O, July 11—A 36-year-old man walked into police headquarters yesterday and asked that he be returned to army authorities as a wartime deserter.

The man identified himself as Clifford Cecil Milliron of Bainbridge, O., and he deserted from Fort Crook, Nebraska, in July 1943.

Police officers quoted the man as saying he had often thought about giving himself up, but "had never been able to work up the nerve."

3 HURT IN LAST OF ACCIDENT SERIES

Highway Near Upper Sandusky Scene of Crashes.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, July 11—Three persons were injured yesterday noon on Route 30 east of Upper Sandusky in the latest of 13 accidents in five days along the two mile stretch of highway. Taken to Bucyrus City hospital were Joseph Samuels, 59, of Chicago and two Turkish students, Orhan Ozene of Indiana university, Bloomington, Ind., and Fikret Gunay of Columbia university, New York City.

Samuels' auto had skidded from the highway, and he was standing by the road when the students' car skidded in the same spot, spun and struck Samuels down before he was able to move from its path. Osman Yenirey, a Columbia student, was driving. Mustafa Dey, also a Columbia student, was uninjured.

Samuels' condition was listed as fair this morning, and the students were reported in good condition. Samuels suffered broken ribs, a punctured lung and fractured right arm, Ozene sustained a back injury, and Gunay suffered abdominal injuries.

This was the latest of a series of accidents involving eight cars and 20 people within a five hour period on the two-mile stretch. No one was seriously injured in the earlier accidents.

Harry Neal, head of the state highway department's traffic and and safety division, said in Columbus that maintenance men had been advised of the situation on the highway where the accident occurred and would act to remedy conditions immediately. Neal explained that warm weather sometimes caused "bleeding" asphalt highway surfaces. Under such a condition, he said, tar works to the surface and rain makes it slick.

The remedy is to cover such surfaces with rock-asphalt, Neal added.

HERBERT NAMES NEW PUBLIC WORKS HEAD

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, July 11—Gov. Thomas J. Herbert today announced appointment of George B. Sowers of Cleveland, as director of public works for a term beginning Aug. 1, 1947 and ending July 31, 1948.

Sowers replaces Frank Rasching, of Cincinnati, who has held the post for seven years and seven months, and who will remain in the department as consulting engineer at a salary of $7,500 a year. Sowers' salary will be $8,600 annually.

Sowers, 51, married and the father of two sons, was city engineer for Cleveland for 19 years and served three years in the last war as a lieutenant colonel in the Corps of Engineers. He served with military government units in Africa, France and Korea.

He is a graduate of the Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, of 1913. He is a native of Richland county, having been born and reared in Lexington.

Rasching was a state department director for the longest period any director has held office. His term expires July 21, but he will remain as acting director until Sowers' term begins.

ACTRESS HAD THOUSANDS IN BANK DEPOSIT BOXES

Police Find Cash In Investigating New Yorker's Murder.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 11—Several thousand dollars in cash and bonds belonging to Mrs. Sheila Mannering were found in a bank safety deposit box late yesterday by some of the 60 detectives who are seeking the slayer of the 49-year-old one-time film and radio actress.

Although more than 300 persons had been questioned up to today, no arrests had been made.

A key to the safety deposit box was found in the West 57th street apartment where the attractive blonde's nude body, a sheet tied around her neck and a towel thrust in her mouth, was found Wednesday.

Police Inspector Michael Ledden said that in addition to the cash and bonds, the exact value of which he declined to disclose, the safety deposit box contained a $700 watch and other jewelry.

Police learned also that Mrs. Mannering several times had visited a store to break $100 bills, sometimes saying, "Look what Daddy gave me."

Sixty Million Jobs Now a U.S. Reality

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—The census bureau reported today that sixty million civilian jobs have become a reality for the first time in American history.

The number of civilian employed, the bureau reported, jumped 1,730,000 during June over the previous record set in May to reach a total of 60,055,000.

The main reason cited was the customary upswing in farm work during the summer. The number employed in agriculture increased 1,420,000 to total of 10,377,000.

Youth Forces Taxi Driver of Mansfield To Aid in Big Spree

By The Associated Press

BATAVIA, N. Y, July 11—State police today held a 22-year-od Massachusetts youth who, they said, allegedly forced an Ohio taxi driver to drive to Pennsylvania, stole an automobile from a Pennsylvania deputy sheriff, and finally held up a Hornell, N Y, clothing store in a two-day spree.

State Police Inspector H. L Kemp said the youth, identified as Chester Gasunas of Hanover, Mass., would be arraigned today at Hornell on charges of first degree robbery and possession of a loaded revolver.

Kemp said the youth, arrested last night at Silver Springs, two hours after the Hornell holdup and 40 miles away, was wanted by police in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts as well as New York state.

Gasunas, the inspector said, allegedly stole a revolver Wednesday at Mansfield, O., and forced George Wade, 23, Mansfield taxi driver to take him as far as Coudersport, Pa., where a suspicious deputy sheriff stopped the taxi and was in turn held up.

The taxi driver had sketched "help police" in the dust on the outside of the taxi, Kemp said. When the deputy, Carl Butler, attempted to question him, Kemp added, Gasunas allegedly took the police official's automobile, and left him tied up.

At the Hornell store state police reported, the youth took $125 and left wearing clothing he had pretended to purchase. One bullet was fired in a scuffle with the manager, Clarence Conley, but it lodged in the ceiling, Kemp said. He declared the youth said the gun fire was accidental.

Kemp said Gasunas also was wanted at Hanover, Mass., in connection with the theft of an automobile last June.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

Autopsy Conducted

The body was taken to the Edwin K. Smith Home for Funerals on East Center street. The autopsy was conducted there this morning by Dr. Morgan and Dr Merchant.

A resident of Marion the last 15 years, she and the children made their home with the stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs Kellis at the Lee street address. Mr Kellis is employed at the Alloy Steel Casting Co. Mrs Gerbes was unemployed.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. with Rev. Melvin Truex, pastor of the First Church of Christ in Christian Union officiating. Burial will be in Forest Glen cemetery.

Kenneth Gerbes is employed on the night shift in the Diesel shop in the Erie roundhouse. He worked his regular shift last night, the sheriff said.

TAX

Community Law Asked

Senator McClellan (D-Ark) wants to permit husbands and wives the nation over to split their income for tax purposes, a privilege that in most cases would result in a lower total tax. Only married couples in a dozen states with community property laws are allowed to do so now.

Also Senator Revercomb (R-WVa) insists that the personal exemption for married couples, now $1,000, be raised to $1,250 or $1,500.

And Senator Morse (R-Ore) said he planned to offer five or six amendments, but he declined to specify their contents in advance.

Morse told newsmen there is "no question that the Republican leadership is playing politics" with the pending bill. He added there is "great danger that it will boomerang against the best interests of my party."

Can't Drop "Saucers" On City, Police Warn

Flying saucers were no optical illusion and required no telescope to see in Marion Wednesday night. They were no naval experiments either. The saucers were paper pie plates carrying advertising material of a local auto sales firm.

The saucers were dropped from a plane piloted by T. J. Vlachos of Marion, who had rented a training plane from the Marion airport.

Police said they saw the pie plates dropping on downtown area between 6 and 7 p m., went to the auto sales store and waited until the pilot returned. They told him it was against the law to throw advertising on the streets and warned him not to repeat the act.

Charge What Traffic Will Bear Is Russian Slogan for Hungary

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Writer

BUDAPEST — Soviet Russia's economic pressure on Hungary, anxious officials here declare, follows the line of never giving a sucker an even break.

Communists, as well as other politicians in the coalition government, tactiely admit that Hungary is the victim of continual financial hijacking by its occupiers.

But the Communists blame the United States for Russia's economic intransigence. They say it is a counter-move to the Truman doctrine and would have been modified if the big Allied powers had not quarreled.

Briefly, Russia demands over a billion dollars in goods and property from this country of 8,000,000 souls.

The Hungarians are dazed. They thought the armistice had obligated them to pay merely $300,000,000 as reparations, with two-thirds to Russia and the remainder to Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

But the Soviet representatives have upped $200,000,000 on paper to $800,000,000 in fact. This is how:

The Allies in 1945 agreed to use the 1938 price level as a reparations standard.

The Russians take the lowest world price of 1938 in valuing an item.

A new locomotive that may cost Hungary $60,000 to construct in 1947 is priced by the Russians at $14,000.

The Hungarians politely protest. The Russians at last grandly "compromise" with the little ex-enemy state. They take the locomotive at $15,000—25 per cent of the real cost.

Same Technique Used

All down the list of physical reparations which Hungary is regularly delivering to Russia, an average of only one-quarter of the real cost is applied to the reparations bill.

By comparison, the Yugoslavs and Czechoslovaks are softer. They only mark down the 1947 cost by half instead of three-quarters.

A second big squeeze by Russia concerns $200,000,000 allegedly owed by Hungary to Nazi Germany and therefore subject under the Potsdam pact to Soviet confiscation.

This sum was part of a trade arrangement left in limbo when Hungary collapsed as an Axis partner. On the other side of the ledger, the Nazis owed Hungary about $400,000,000.

Russians ignore what the Nazis owed, but insist they should have every cent that the Hungarians owed.

In prolonged negotiations here, the government, including Communist cabinet ministers, voted a token settlement to Russia of $10,000,000 instead of $300,000,000.

"No" Like Thunder

The Russian "No!" was like a clap of thunder.

Unhappy Hungarian delegates have since been sitting in Moscow, but no compromise is yet in sight. Communists excused themselves from a place on the delegation but give it formal support from distant Budapest.

Besides the reparations bill which has climbed in reality to $800,000,000, and the alleged trade debt of a prospective similar size, the Russians have taken over $50,000,000 worth of German-owned companies in Hungary. In addition, there are other companies which the Russians also claim as German, but which the Hungarians assert are really French, Belgian or other non-German nationality and were wartime thefts.

Hungarians concede that an earlier Soviet policy after the war helped them make a sound beginning on national reconstruction.

The Red army did not dismantle Hungarian factories on the same scale that it swept away industrial installations from eastern Germany and Manchuria.

Even some railroad freight cars, which the Red army claimed as war booty, were permitted to remain within Hungary on a rental basis.

But facing the future, Hungarian officials wistfully express the hope that Russia will see wisdom in the fable of the goose that laid golden eggs—and not let fall the ax.

WARNS SHOOTING, BUT NOT WAR, OVER

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, July 11—Only the shooting part of World War II is over, Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) said last night, warning that "whether or not another war comes depends on mankind learning to live together."

Speaking to the National Education association's 26th annual general assembly convention, the Minnesota Republican declared:

"Throughout the world today a fierce political and ideological war is being waged to determine who won the shooting war. No matter who defeated the Germans and Japanese the real victor in World War II depends on what ideas and whose ideas win out in the reconstruction of the world.

"We know who defeated Germany," Judd said, "but who is going to win the Germans—win their minds and hearts."

Referring to Greece, Judd asserted: "If she should go down, Turkey would be helplessly outflanked; if they go down then of course Iran, Iraq, Arabia and Afghanistan would go down like tenpins and Russia's agents would stand at the door of India."

He said some people had advocated abandoning China and Asia, "as they advocated abandoning Greece and Turkey, because they assume that the only way we can avoid war with Russia is by always yielding. But surely we have learned something about this business of getting peace by yielding. It leads not to peace, but to war."

However, Judd declared, he rejected utterly "the talk that war between the United States and Russia is inevitable."

The NEA general assembly, at the concluding session of its five-day conference, will be asked this afternoon to adopt a resolution calling upon congress to enact "such legislation as may be required" to provide "an adequate military establishment."

Asks Judge To Stop Man from Dating Wife

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 11—Buster Harbican asked common pleas court today for an injunction to prevent another man from taking his wife out on dates.

Married for 15 years, Harbican charged in the petition that A. W. Schmidt was alienating the affections of his wife, Helen Harbigan.

He said a restraining order was his only recourse.

Harbican said Schmidt had been taking his wife to the movies and other places and had been visiting her at his home—particularly during Harbican's absence.

Court attaches said the case was the first of its type in their memory.

FINED FOR TRAIN RIDING

Edward Harkins, 43, of Duquoin, Ill., was fined $10 and costs in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of train riding filed by Erie police. He was arrested at 8:02 p. m. yesterday at the Erie yards.

DEWEY GETS BACKING OF KANSAS' G.O.P.

By The Associated Press

ENROUTE WITH DEWEY, July 11—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey rode across the plains of Kansas today bearing with him assurances of many Republican leaders of the state that their delegation would be in his corner at the national convention next June.

The tanned and poised New York chief executive is headed for Salt Lake City to attend the annual governor's conference July 13-16.

A two-hour stopover is scheduled at Denver. Dewey is expected to confer there with Rev. C. Eaton, Republican committeeman from Colorado.

With his wife and two sons, Dewey left Kansas City last night after 27 hours in the mid-continent metropolis.

During a hectic day, the governor received uncounted wishes of success in his undeclared bid for the Republican presidential nomination, plus predictions that a majority of Kansas delegates to the convention would vote for him.

Gov. Frank Carlson of Kansas flew back from a Washington visit to join Dewey in shaking hands with approximately 1,000 persons at a public reception in honor of the New Yorker and his wife.

Carlson said that in his state Dewey was leading all other prospective candidates.

Harry Darby, national committeeman for Kansas, indicated he also favored Dewey.

No one knows exactly where former Gov. Alf Landon stands. The 1936 presidential nominee did not attend a luncheon of Kansas and Missouri Republicans given in Dewey's honor yesterday under sponsorship of Darby and B. T. Mattingly, Missouri member of the national committee.

SPEAKER MARTIN WISHES TRUMAN BEST OF HEALTH

Next in Line, by New Bill, Does Not Want To Be President.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Joseph W. Martin Jr., prominent bachelor politician of North Attleboro, Mass., earnestly expressed the hope today that President Truman will continue to enjoy "the best of health."

The 63-year-old Republican speaker of the house had a special reason: "I don't want to be president."

He made his views known in an interview after the house sent to Mr. Truman a bill placing the speaker next in line for the presidency in case of vacancies in the offices of both president and vice president.

Since there presently is no vice president, Mr. Truman's signature on the new legislation which he himself requested automatically would make Martin "next in line."

"I really mean it when I say that I don't want to be president," Martin said. "I sincerely hope President Truman will finish out the rest of his term."

Mr. Truman's present term has about a year and a half to run.

SAD SACK REALLY SAD

Cartoon Character's Creator Sued for Divorce, Settlement.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, July 11 — Cartoonist George Baker, creator of "Sad Sack," has been sued for divorce by Mrs. Brenda Baker, 22, whom he married in Yuma, Ariz., May 29, 1946.

The complaint alleges cruelty and states that she is to receive a settlement of $7,500 in lieu of alimony.

The drawings of the 32-year-old cartoonist first became popular in the servicemen's magazine Yank.

Two Minor Traffic Accidents Reported

Two minor auto accidents occurred in Marion Thursday involving cars pulling out from a parked position at the curb. One happened on Carhart street about 75 feet north of Center street at 8:55 p. m. between an auto driven by Otto C. Schlientz of 310 Hane avenue and another driven by Alonzo D. East of 652 East Center street. East, who was parked on Carhart street, started to move from the curb as Schlientz went by going north on the same street, police said. The fenders of both cars were damaged slightly.

The other accident occurred on East Church street near State street Thursday afternoon when an auto driven by Luella M. Plummer of route 6 Marion started to pull away from the curb as a car driven by Jacob M. Deitsch of Waldo went by going west on East Church street, police said. The fenders of both were damaged.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS PREPARE PROGRAM

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11 — Young Democratic leaders offered their party elders today what they termed an "aggressive program to protect our peace and economic stability."

A "statement of principles" adopted by delegates of the Young Democratic Clubs of America after private conferences with President Truman and national party leaders calls for:

1. Continuing the administration's "friendly but firm foreign policy."

2. Elimination of hunger and suffering as breeding grounds of "isms."

3. Building up the United Nations "as a working weapon for peace."

4. Planned reduction in the cost of federal government and in the national debt with safeguards to avoid "helter-skelter slashing of government costs by abandoning essential peacetime operations."

"We do not want to save money at the cost of national security," the statement said.

Adopted late yesterday, it is subject to amplification and approval by the national convention of Young Democrats at Cleveland Oct. 3-4.

REV. CARROLL H. LEWIS

Hospital Head To Speak Here

When a new custom, an annual picnic and program for the W. S. C. S. of Epworth Methodist church, is instituted Wednesday night next week, the speaker will be Rev. Carroll H. Lewis, former Methodist pastor and lieutenant colonel in the U. S. Army, now superintendent of White Cross hospital in Columbus. Members of the organization, their families and guests will gather at Garfield park at 5 p. m., and basket dinner will be served at 6:30, it was announced.

Rev. Lewis became general superintendent of White Cross Jan. 1, last year, upon release from active military service.

During European operations in World War II, he served as chief public welfare officer with the 1st U. S. Army under Gen. Hodges. His work had to do with refugees, evacuees and displaced persons, and liberation of prison camps. Prior to military service, he was pastor for a time of the Hyde Park Community Methodist church in Cincinnati, then served First Methodist church in Middletown. For a period of eight years he was superintendent of Christ hospital in Cincinnati, and was seven years superintendent of the Children's home there.

PROBE OF WAR CONTRACT FRAUD COMPLAINTS SET

House To Investigate Officers Who Now Work for Companies.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Chairman Michener (R-Mich) said today the house judiciary committee will investigate promptly charges by comptroller general Lindsay Warren that at least 19 war contractors defrauded the government of more than $2,000,000 in contract settlements.

Warren declared in a report to congress that "certain war and navy officers and employes engaged on termination settlements went to work immediately there after with the very war contractors on whose termination claims they had worked."

He said there was no doubt "some officers and employes were guilty of "feathering their nests" when reaching the post-war settlements.

Michener told a newsman the Warren report probably will be referred to a subcommittee for investigation.

"We will deal judiciously with anything that comes to us," he added.

... were originally ... Rifles, a band ... after the regular ... company was or- ... active service during the war. The Rifles operated for almost a year before becoming a company in the state guard.

Col. Earl W. Brannon of Columbus was regimental commander of Co. H and Lt. Col. Albert B. Rankin of London, O., was battalion commander. In command of the local unit were Capt. Carl Ebert, Lt. Elmer E. Smith and Second Lt. H. D. Price.

First Uniforms Blue

Uniforms of the company at first were blue cotton shirts and pants, black prison made shoes and broad brimmed campaign hats. Arms were 30-caliber Enfield rifles. At the first camp at Camp Zaleski, later renamed Camp Light at Zaleski, O., in the southern part of the state, the Enfield rifles were replaced with 12-gauge shotguns.

The shotguns together with two 45-caliber submachine guns were Co. H's only weapons until February, 1944, when six Enfield, 30-caliber model 1917 rifles were received. Three months later 26 more rifles of the same type were received as were two Browning 30-caliber water-cooled machine guns, a quantity of chemical ammunition, smoke pots, tear gas, etc., making the company a full fledged machine gun and chemical company.

Regulation army uniforms and a quantity of field equipment including pup tents, pack carriers, shelter halves, etc., were issued a short time later.

Designated Co. M

April 16, 1944, Co. H was transferred to the Fourth Infantry and redesignated Co. M. The unit was now under the regimental commander, Col. Clarence E. Rowe of Toledo and the authorized strength of the company was increased from 50 to 60 men.

In January of 1945 Co. M received transportation in the form of a model M1A heavily armored, eight-man capacity scout car. The car was later returned to Columbus arsenal. At Camp Light in July of 1945, Co. M received two more scout cars and participated in a motor march from Camp Light to Camp Perry, O., as part of the camp's field training.

The training status for the past five years ranged from training to repel an actual invasion during the early part of the war to assisting civil authorities during the latter stages and after the war.

The unit made frequent overnight camps during suitable weather to become proficient in the use of field equipment. The training program was divided into two phases, training for summer camp and training for federal inspection.

In 1943 when a federal inspection was held in March, Co. H, as the company was then called, was declared the best in Ohio, receiving the highest proficiency rating.

For the last four years, the company has sponsored a series of dances at the armory to finance the company activities. Several indoor carnivals were also staged to raise funds.

Charter Members

Members of the company who were charter members are Capt. Elmer E. Smith, First Sgt. Carl F. Pollock and Staff Sgt. Earl J. Camp. Officers who have commanded the unit are as follows: Capt. Ebert, July 7, 1942 to Dec. 5, 1945; Lt. Smith, July 7, 1942, promoted to captain Dec. 5, 1945, now in command; Lt. Price, July 7, 1942, resigned July 23, 1944; Lt. Timothy Pahey, July 23, 1944, resigned to enter service May 23, 1945; Ralph Young, appointed second lieutenant May 23, 1945, promoted to first lieutenant Dec. 5, 1945 and Howard E. Fogle, appointed second lieutenant Dec. 11, 1945.

July 15, Co. M will hold a farewell banquet at the Evergreens in Upper Sandusky. Officers of Co. C also will be present. On July 22, representatives of the adjutant general's department will be at the armory to make an inventory of all equipment and transport it to Columbus.

Marion Nurses Respond To Plea for Help at Hospital

In the true spirit of nursing tradition nurses of the community are curtailing household duties and recreation hours to help out at the Marion City hospital and the outlook for more help on the nursing staff is somewhat brighter, Miss Irene Tinklepaugh, superintendent of nurses said today.

The most recent "bright spot" in the help problem is the news that a number of private duty nurses in the city have arranged to give one week out of the year to staff duty at the hospital, Miss Tinklepaugh said today. This, plus the help of the registered nurses who rallied to an appeal for help earlier this summer, promises to relieve the situation at the hospital immeasurably, those in charge state.

Marion, like hospitals throughout the country, is suffering from a shortage of nurses, and a number of former active nurses in the community, realizing this, are now giving some part of their time to helping out on staff duty.

"We realize that these women have their homes and families, and appreciate what it means to them to rearrange their family and home life to help out," Miss Tinklepaugh said today in discussing the situation. With the private duty nurses helping out and the help afforded by others who have rallied to the cause, the shortage is alleviated, "but we still need nurses," Miss Tinklepaugh added.

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Diet Low in Salt

A salt-restricted diet does not mean just going easy with the salt shaker. Many of our ordinary foods in their natural state contain liberal amounts of salt. One of these is milk. Others are barley, lima beans, and onions.

Naturally this poses a real problem for people who have been directed to hold down their consumption of salt to a minimum, as often happens in cases of high blood pressure. Some doctors believe that for patients of this type a well-balanced diet without any particular restrictions other than avoidance of over-eating is best.

On the other hand, Dr. Arthur Grollman, of the Southwestern Medical college, thinks that if the blood pressure is to be lowered and the symptoms relieved, the amount of salt in the diet must be restricted to a great degree so that the daily amount does not exceed five-tenth or one-half of a gram. One level standard teaspoon contains approximately 4 grams, so this amount of salt would be about one-eighth of a teaspoonful.

The difficulty which arises in planning such a diet is to furnish enough protein without using foods which are high in salt content. Dr. Grollman suggests substituting powdered milk which has much less salt, for the ordinary kind. When milk is dried to make powdered milk, some of the salt is lost from it. There are a number of other foods which he says should be avoided. These include all salted foods, such as smoked meats, bacon, ham, pretzels, salted butter, olives, pickles, beets, celery, onions, all kinds of seafoods and relishes.

On the other hand, when a diet which is greatly limited in salt is employed, care must be taken that symptoms of salt lack do not occur, especially in hot weather. Lack of salt may cause such symptoms as nervousness, irritability, and often, complete collapse.

If there is an abnormal kidney condition present, such as kidney inflammation, restriction of salt to too great a degree may cause an increase of certain substances in the blood, such as urea.

Persons who are using a salt-restricted diet often complain of the insipid taste of food. This can be overcome by using a mixture of substances such as potassium chloride, potassium citrate, and ammonium chloride, which are substitutes for salt. These preparations can be bought at the drug store.

In the salt-restricted diet, breakfast, for example, could consist of orange juice, grapefruit juice, one egg plus one additional egg yolk, oatmeal, powdered milk, and coffee. Peaches may also be used.

Meat patties, macaroni, tomatoes, unsalted butter and margarine, and such vegetables as lettuce, string beans, cabbage, squash, and eggplant may also be included.

The composition of foods is so complicated and the whole problem of maintaining the body on a salt-restricted diet is so intricate, it is obvious that anyone employing such a diet should be under the care of a physician who knows how to watch and regulate all the factors involved.

Wins 28 Class Trot Feature In Final Heat Stretch Drive

By DON C. BURTON

Red Tiger took top honors in the 28 class trot Berlou Mfg. Co. stake feature event at the fairgrounds last night by spurting down the stretch in the final heat.

Wilbur Ehlen was behind Red Tiger.

The Tiger set the pace for over three-quarters of the one-mile distance in the first heat but lost out in the stretch and wound up third. The first heat went to Milt's Lad in a great stretch drive. Mill's Lad is owned by Haines Brothers of Richwood and had Delbert Haines reining.

Ben Peterson of the Berlou Mfg. Co. presented a blanket to Ehlen for Red Tiger's owners, Stevens and Hamilton of Rome, Ga., who were absent. The second heat was over the mile and sixteenth.

The track was slow after the rains of yesterday. The fastest mile for the night was 2:12.8 established by Burke Abbe to win the eighth race which was a 2:19 class pace. Burke was driven by owner L. L. Blaney of Mt. Gilead.

Curly Smart of Delaware drove his first winner of the meeting in the first race when he reined Bell Day home ahead of a field of eight in the maiden trot for $300. The chestnut filly is owned by M. Broderick of Delaware.

Portis G. won the 26 class pace at a 9-16 mile for $300 in the second race as driver Boring kept the bay filly on top all the way. Portia G is the property of Ed Johnson of Fairmont, Ind.

Zinnastone came from nowhere to win the 2 year old pace in the third race after Sing Song had led to the stretch. Sing Song finished third behind Miss Mickey G. The veteran Gabe Cartnal was behind Zinnastone who is owned by James Moody of Mechanicsburg.

Bob Plaxico drove Miss Mickey G.

Dr. Hugh M. Parshall who is not having too much horse in front of him in most of the races, won the 24 class trot behind Volo Brook to defeat Florian who had led most of the way. Volo Brook is owned by Dr. Gullinger of Andover.

Billy Carleton, a chestnut gelding by Henry Worthy took top honors in the 2:15 class trot at a mile and a sixteenth. Billy was guided by Walter Dispanette, and is owned by L. D. Blair of Hobart, Ind.

Bad Boy Black Pitches No-Hitter for Cleveland

Hurls First Masterpiece In AL Since Feller's 1946 Feat

By The Associated Press

Don Black, a reformed character who was "all washed up" a year ago, has eclipsed his famous Cleveland teammate Bobby Feller by pitching the first no-hitter of the American league season.

The Indians' righthander, whose elbow bending cost him one big league job and sent him shuffling off to the minors two seasons, is the No. 1 man of the Cleveland staff—at least for one brief 24-hour period.

Black's effort was a little spotty in the early stages. He walked the first two men he faced and leaned heavily on his mates' fielding enroute to his dazzling success against his old Philadelphia mates.

Rain Halts Second

Rain halted the scheduled twilight game in the second inning for 45 minutes.

Joe Gordon's overhead running catch of an Elmer Valo pop fly in right field in the third inning was the fielding gem that saved the day.

Feller, whose aching back forced him to miss the All-Star game, racked up his 11th victory in the 2-1 second game but he required help from Ed Klieman in the ninth to save the edge given him by Hank Edward's two-run homer.

Lefty Joe Page, the New York Yankees' relief ace, added a new turn to his specialty and added a ninth-inning home run that sunk the St. Louis Browns, 4-3. Spud Chandler was knocked out in the seventh, the first time he had failed to finish since opening day against the A's, snapping a streak of 13 complete games.

Yanks 8½ Up

Page's homer stretched the Yanks' win streak to nine and boosted their lead to 8½ games over Detroit and Boston, who played a 2-2 tie game, called at the end of the eighth when the twilight became darkness.

Washington took both ends of a doubleheader from Chicago, 4-0, behind Early Wynn who registered his 10th win and 7-2 behind Rae Scarborough.

Brooklyn's Ralph Branca joined the parade of pitching headliners by copping both games for Brooklyn against Chicago, the first 5-3 with the aid of relief help from Hank Behrman and Hugh Casey and the second 4-3 as a reliefer for Harry Taylor.

Braves Have Frolic

The Braves frolicked for 16 hits in winning a 6-4 day game from Cincinnati for reliefer Clyde Shoun as Tommy Holmes hit two homers. But the night game was a different story with the Reds' Bud Lively besting Bill Voiselle with a three-hitter, 2-1, on the strength of Babe Young's two-run homer.

St. Louis subdued the New York Giants, 11-4, Red Munger Coasting along with an 11-hitter.

Philadelphia clubbed hapless Pittsburgh twice, 7-2 and 2-1 burying the Pirates deeper in the National cellar.

SCHLAIRET OUT OF BASEBALL TOURNEY

Kenny Somerlot, Schlairet baseball team manager, said today that his squad won't participate in the pending intra-city baseball tournament.

The tournament which is the brain child of Harold Smith, manager of the Marion Crystals, has been proposed as a means of finding Marion's toughest semi-pro baseball club, to play against the Cubs.

Last year Schlairet played the Marion baseball team several times, beating them once.

The team will also not enter the semi-pro baseball tournament scheduled at Ada, July 13, because it conflicts with their schedule and schedules of the softball teams most of the Schlairet players are on.

Sunday Schlairet will play at Sandusky against the Sandusky Boosters. Doll Feichter, smoke ball artist who recently joined the club, is slated for mound duty. Players will leave from Manager Somerlot's home on Gurley avenue at 9:30 a. m.

22 NO-HITTERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 11—The 52 minor league baseball clubs in the United States have produced 22 no-hitters this season, nine of them in June, the National Association of Professional Baseball League's office disclosed today.

Clams near Australia with shells weighing nearly half a ton have been reported to capture and kill humans.

PLAYS THAT COUNT

By FRANK ECK
AP Sports Editor

Herald (Muddy) Ruel, who is managing his first ball club, the St. Louis Browns, this year, likes to remeber the 1924 World Series in which his timely hitting helped the Washington Senators beat the New York Giants in the seventh and final game.

RUEL
Browns

"I think I hit only .091 in the Series and didn't get my first hit until the sixth game but in the eighth or ninth inning of the final game I singled home the tying run and in the 12th inning I doubled and scored with the winning run on Earl McNeely's single to left field," says Ruel.

Two other American League managers—Bucky Harris of the Yankees and Ossie Bluege of the Senators—place Ruel's scoring with the winning run among the most important plays they have ever seen.

REDS REJOICE AS LIVELY PROVES HE'S GOT WHAT IT TAKES

Rookie Fashions 3-Hit Victory Against Braves After Earlier Routes.

By The Associated Press

BOSTON, July 11—All was rejoicing in the Redleg camp today—a rookie hurler had found himself.

Everett Lively, six-foot-two right-hander, proved he had the stuff last night with a taree-hit 2-1 victory over the Boston Braves in the second game of a day-night engagement. It was the 22-year-old red-head's first major league victory and came after he had been shelled from the mound in two previous starts.

The Reds lost the afternoon contest 6-4 but Manager Johnny Neun has a stopper for today's tilt in the person of Ewell (No-Hit) Blackwell.

Blackie will be going after his fifteenth victory of the season and thirteenth in succession. It was against Boston that the lanky right-hander tossed a no-hitter the night of June 18. Johnny Sain opposed him.

Babe Young, Cincinnati first sacker, shared the starring role with Lively as he belted a two-run homer, his second circuit blow of the day, to clinch the nightcap victory.

The former New York Giant's game-winning clout came in the seventh inning with two out and Benny Zientara on first.

Alcoholics Anonymous Gets An Assist in Flinging Victory

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, July 11—The motto of the baseball world today should be "hats off to who ever was responsible" for Don (No-Hit) Black joining the Alcoholics Anonymous, declares veteran Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics.

The Cleveland Indians hurler, who soared to diamond fame last night with a 3-0 no-hitter over his former Philadelphia teammates, was "at the end of the baseball trail a year ago—cast off to the minors for keeps—before he joined that fine organization," said Black's former boss.

"He pitched a wonderful game," Connie continued, adding with a calm smile, "as we didn't make any runs. I'm rather pleased that he was able to pitch a no-hitter.

Slider in Groove

"Our Philadelphia boys said his slider was working wonderfully—that's why he was so successful in this game," said the 84-year-old veteran in the soft manner which has earned him recognition as one of "baseball's gentlemen."

"I was especially glad for Don because—well, you know—he's taking better care of himself these days," Connie smiled, adding this masterful understatement: "He dissipated quite a little when he was with us.

"Whoever was responsible for Don joining the Alcoholics Anonymous—I say 'all hats off' to him."

In the steaming dressing room at the other side of Cleveland's huge stadium, Black was the first to agree with his grey-thatched former manager.

"If it wasn't for joining the A.A.'s," he said, after the first happy moments of celebration had ticked away," I never would have pitched that game."

In hurling the first no-hit, no-run victory in the American league since his teammate, Bob Feller, held the New York Yankees hitless and runless, April 30, 1946, Black fanned five A's, issued six passes and faced 32 batters.

Joe (Flash) Gordon moved into a corner of Black's spotlight with a sensational running catch in the third inning which eventually saved the no-hitter. Racing away from the plate when a pop-fly left Elmer Valo's bat, Gordon sped into right field and turned the ball into his glove at top speed.

Hot Return Fight on WMRN Tonight

Two top middleweights who have designs on the title, Georgie Abrams (above), Brooklyn, and Steve Belloise of the Bronx, N. Y., clash tonight in a return ten-rounder at Madison Square Garden. In a whisker-close fight last fall, Abrams was awarded the decision. The referee called it a draw but the two judges voted in favor of Georgie.

Belloise has had 27 settos since his Navy discharge, and has won all of them except the Abrams brawl. Twenty of these triumphs have been knockouts.

Abrams is a canny, ringwise performer. In fact, he's considered the cleverest boxer in the 160-lb. class. He possesses a good left hook and a fast right hand. It looks to be a Kilkenny and should make for mighty good listening.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WMRN (1490 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

And remember, men . . . LOOK sharp! FEEL sharp! BE sharp! Use Gillette Blue Blades with the sharpest edges ever honed!

Lose Chance To Gain on Bums; Bruins Move Over To Newark

Special to The Star

ZANESVILLE, July 11—The Marion Cubs and Zanesville Dodgers split a doubleheader here last night, the Cubs winning the opener, 7-5, and losing the seven-inning finale, 5-4. The split left the Cubs one and one-half games behind.

The Cubs move over to Newark for four games including a Sunday doubleheader.

Zanesville won the opener with a three-run rally in the ninth featured by a double by Maxhimer with the bases full.

The Cubs got two runs in the first inning when Bill Rosin walked with the bases full.

The Dodgers tagged John Edgington for five runs in the first three innings of the seven-inning game, but he held the Cubs in check the remainder of the distance.

The Cubs made a desperate effort to come from behind but fell short. With one run in and the bases full in the sixth Rasmussen struckout and Forbes grounded to second.

The Cubs made a run in the second inning of this game when Dwight Maxhimer drove a long home run over the centerfield fence. Only a few balls have ever been hit over that fence here.

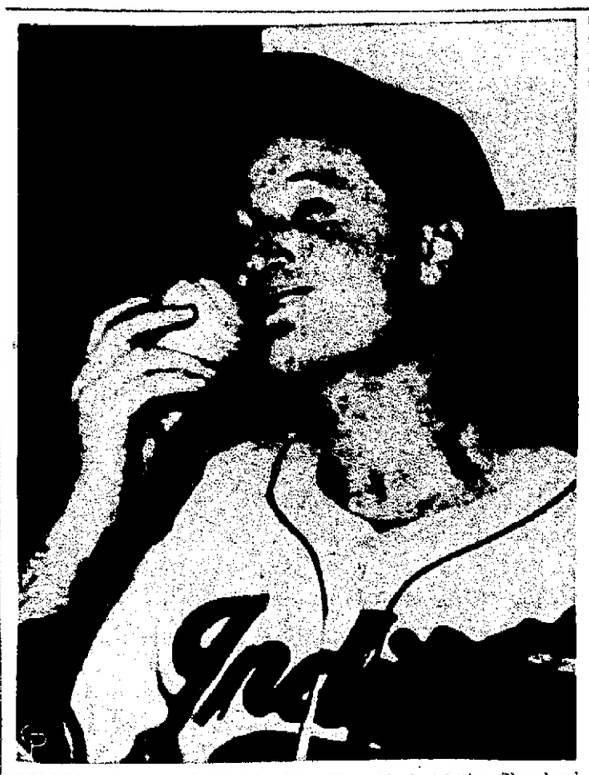
FIGHTERS CHECK UP

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 11—Today was physical check-up day for Tony Zale, middleweight boxing champion, and Rocky Graziano, New York challenger, who will clash in a 15-round title bout at Chicago stadium next Wednesday night.



BRIGHT MOMENT FOR BLACK. Don Black of the Cleveland Indians kisses ball that he hurled to a no-hit, 3 to 0 victory over the Athletics in Cleveland stadium. Black, who recently joined Alcoholics Anonymous, pitched two no-hit games while in the minor leagues.

14 of Speediest Pacers In U. S. Here Saturday Night

Fourteen of the nation's swiftest pacers will clash in the 14 class Pacing Derby at the Little Grand Circuit races at the fairgrounds Saturday night.

The Pacing Derby is the feature attraction of the 18-day Marion meeting.

The event, sponsored by the Morral Supply Co., will carry a purse of $3.000.

Racing Secretary Frank M. Foster, two days before the big battle predicts that the Pacing Derby will bring together the finest lot of pacers to be assembled on Ohio tracks this year.

A new record for the mile at the Marion two lap track is not out of reach by the fast horseflesh entered in the big race.

Record Now 2:03¾

The present track record of 2:03¾ was established in the early thirties by Grattan Bars and many horses have tried in vain to best it. Even the great Greyhound, Volo Song, Victory Song, King's Counsel and a host of others have failed to lower the time of Grattan Bars' feat.

The nearest to come to equaling the fast half-mile track record at the fairgrounds oval was Barefoot G in the July 4 race when the fast hopple user, measured the two laps in the 2:04.2 to lower the bay gelding's own record for the mile from 2:06.5.

Plenty of Competition

Barefoot G will get plenty of competition from Double Volo, who last week defeated Barefoot G in one of the heats of the Junior free for all pace in which the fast mark was recorded. Double Volo also chased the bay gelding across the finish line in the fast mile. Barefoot G's owner, Cecil Clark, will be here from his home in Union City, Ind., to see the Pacing Derby. Double Volo, property of Frank S. Callahan of Tiffin, has a record of 2:02½ established on a one-mile track.

He has already returned earnings of over $10,000 to his owner. Both horses are in fine shape for the big duel Saturday night as both have been racing all spring being entered at the Troy races in June.

Other Fast Horses

Doon, another entry in the Derby Saturday night has already handed over to his owner, A. L. Baxter of Flint, Mich., $10,295 earned from beating other sidewheelers past the judges' stand.

Other fast pacers entered in the Pacing Derby declared in for Saturday night and their best time for the mile follow: Gabe Abbe, 2:03½; Miss Ruby, 2:06½; Victory Dale, 2:07; Shanklin, 2:05½; Hollywood Jennifer, 2:06¼; Jack Mills, 2:06½; Jesse Porter, 2:06½; Paul McPherson, 2:06½, and Scotch Mary, 2:04.

The Pacing Derby which takes the place of the annual Four Bar Pace that is usually the feature of the Marion three-week racing program. The bar races have been ruled out by the United States Trotting association. The 14 class Derby was substituted.

If all 14 horses that have declared in are ready to start in the big race Saturday then two elimination heats will be held, as a limit of 12 starters is now the rule at the local track. The first two early heats would then contest for the money in the final runoff. Should two of the 14 entries withdraw by post time Saturday then only two heats will be necessary, each for $1,500.

NAMED WORKS MANAGER

MARYSVILLE, July 11—The H. B. Salter Manufacturing Co., producer of plumbing fixtures, today announced the appointment of Sylvan Grotte as works manager for all Salter plants. Mr. Grotte has been manager for the past two years of the Glauber Brass Co. at Kinsman, O., a division of the Salter Co.

What's Bruin?

Merle "Lefty" Settlemire, manager of the Lima Terriers, now deep in the Ohio State league coal hole, says it takes about three or four years for pitchers to learn to think while on the mound.

The veteran big leaguer who hurled for the Boston Red Sox years ago, said while he was in the minors he could throw the ball by the batters often enough to win. When he got to the big show, however, he found all the batters hitting his best pitch.

So to protect himself, Lefty began to think. He began to study where to throw the ball to each batter and while not working he watched the opposing hitters for weaknesses and before long he knew where to throw.

* * *

He says that a youth cannot absorb baseball knowledge overnight. If he tries to give a boy all the know-how at once he gets him confused and looks up and the pitcher has walked the batter. The first thing a boy who aspires to be a pitcher must have is control, says Lefty. Before he has that important asset instructions only confuse. He says it would be like putting a second grade pupil in the sixth grade and ask him all the arithmetic problems. He just cannot do it.

* * *

Settlemire is having his troubles with Lima. The Pups made a working agreement with the White Sox at the start of the year, but the Pale Hose have sent only castoffs and sandlotters to Lima.

Very seldom does he have the same lineup for more than three or four days. His best performer is Jack Maisch, a former Lima Central High school all-round athlete, whom the Terrier owners got without help.

Newark Whips Lima, 7-1 In Other OSL Game

The only other game played besides the doubleheader at Zanesville saw Newark's Browns defeat the Lima Terriers, 7-1. Springfield was rained out at Richmond, Ind., while Muncie and Dayton enjoyed an open date.

Bob Brunner pitched the Newark victory, winning his fifth straight decision and ninth of the season. Lima scored in the getaway round but couldn't solve Brunner's slants thereafter also gasped momentarily when Tribe centerfielder George Metkovich appeared to misjudge a towering 400-foot drive in time to race back to the wall for a one-handed catch.

"It was the greatest pitch I ever made in my life," was Black's first shout when the no-hitter was completed.

He was referring not to his baffling slider nor hopping fast ball—he was describing his easy toss to first baseman Eddie Robinson after he smothered Sam Chapman's grounder to complete the final out.

"And that was absolutely the finest catch that Robbie ever made in a baseball suit," Don chuckled.

Meeting of Youth Organization Set

If you are over 18 years of age and would like to belong to a club made up of young people of that age who like to spend a couple of evenings dancing, be at the American Legion Dugout Saturday night at 8 o'clock to help plan just such an organization.

Steps to sponsor a club of this kind were taken recently by members of Bird-McGinnis Post No. 162, American Legion, who are backing the movement 100 per cent. Recognizing the need for such a group, following talks with young people 18 and up who find it difficult to find a suitable place for an evening of dancing, the post voted to grant the use of the Dugout as a recreation center on Saturday and Sunday evenings of each week. Use of the kitchen for snacks also will be granted the club members.

Although the post is sponsoring the club, the members will make their own rules, subject to approval by the legion, elect officers and manage their own affairs it is planned.

Among those taking an active part in promoting the organization of the club are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Glanero, Miss Dorothy Jones, Miss Evelyn Grove, William Coulter, Isadore Birnbaum and a number of other young people.

Present at the meeting, which is being called by Newton Cunningham, a member of Bird-McGinnis post, will be several members of the post and others who will be available for consultation and advice.

Arms Training Foes Say They Are Being Gagged

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11—Opponents of universal military training complained today that the house armed services committee is trying to keep them from being heard.

Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War, said in a statement there are signs the committee wants to "railroad" a training bill through congress at this session.

His protest came after Chairman Andrews (R-NY) announced that the whole question of universal training will be turned over to a subcommittee when the full group completes today the hearings it began last month.

Andrews declined to say whether the subcommittee, headed by Rep. Towe (R-NJ), will hold further hearings or start drawing up a bill. Rep. Short (R-Mo), who ranks next to Andrews on the full committee, said he will insist on more testimony because "the opposition hasn't had a full opportunity to present its case."

Manufacturers Urge Six Billion Tax Trim

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 11 — A $6,000,000,000 cut in individual income taxes and a 5 per cent limit on taxation of big earnings was proposed to congress today by the National Association of Manufacturers.

Tax rates now reach 85.5 per cent on the highest bracket incomes.

Don G. Mitchell, chairman of NAM's taxation committee, told the house ways and means committee the NAM program is designed to insure full production and employment by encouraging investments.

The proposed tax slash would not be in addition to the $4,000,000,000 Republican-backed bill now before congress, but an alternative means of reducing taxes.

Y'S LEARN-TO-SWIM CAMPAIGN ENDED

The learn-to-swim campaign conducted by the Y.M.C.A. has been successfully completed, according to a report by Fred Ruhl, Y. swimming director.

Free classes were conducted for fifth and sixth grade boys and girls over a three-week period.

This year 76 boys and 138 girls participated in the program. This was an increase of 38 over the number that took part in last year's learn to swim program.

Girls were instructed in eight 30 minute classes and boys in nine 45 minute classes.

A standard of achievement was set up by the school. Students able to jump feet first into the pool and swim the length of it passed successfully.

Although not all of the youngsters who attended the classes achieved the goal, most of them can swim to some extent and gained confidence that will permit them to become swimmers.

This is borne out by the fact that this year in school visitations, Ruhl learned that most sixth grade youngsters knew how to swim. Work this year was done chiefly with fifth graders.

Columbus City Workers To Split Cash Melon

COLUMBUS, O., July 11—A $1,387,917 melon soon will be split up by Columbus city employes at the direction of city council—but it's all money that the city fathers withheld from salaries during the depression.

Mayor James A. Rhodes, councilmen and attorneys for the employes reached an agreement yesterday that the city would repay employes' claims for the five and 10 per cent deductions that were made between 1931 and Feb. 28, 1937 to finance public charity and general operations here.

By agreeing to repay the principal amount before claim suits now on file are sent through the courts, the city saves the interest that might be assessed during the course of litigation.

STATE GUARD UNIT TO BE DEACTIVATED

Co. I of Kenton Will End Wartime Activities July 22.

Special to The Star

KENTON, July 11 — Company "I," Ohio State Guard, will be deactivated on July 22, according to an announcement by Capt. Pearl V. Shields, commanding officer. Thus will end the wartime service of many local men who gave of their time and energy in carrying on one of the state's important functions for several years during the war period.

Company "I" of Kenton was mustered into service at the Armory at Kenton by authority of Adjutant General Whittier S. Bird June 22, 1941, pursuant to an act of the legislature authorizing an Ohio State Guard while the Ohio National Guard was out of the state in federal service. The company was the first one mustered in the 1st Infantry Regiment commanded by Col. Samuel Richmond of Cincinnati.

Col. Charles Stump of Sidney, 3rd Battalion Commander, announced at the armory that Company "I" had the distinction of having the enlisted man within it's ranks who was the "oldest" soldier in point of service in the entire State Guard. Sgt Willis D. Wilcox was mustered with Company "I" and holds an unbroken record with the company to date. He enlisted as a private and now holds the rating of staff sergeant.

As the company is deactivated eleven of the original roster are still on the roll-call. Many of the men are now too old for service in the National Guard, but a large number of the younger men will enlist in the Ohio National Guard.

MARKET INDUSTRIAL AVERAGE AT RECORD

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, July 11—Persistent demand for steels and special issues today put the stock market's industrial average at another new high for the year although selling on the lengthy upswing restrained many leaders.

A stiff wage boost in the hard coal field, on top of the recent pay hike for bituminous miners, accentuated inflation psychology as a buying argument.

Dealings speeded up in the forenoon but subsequently tapered as offerings appeared. Extreme advances running to 2 or more points were reduced in most cases near the fourth hour with assorted losers in evidence.

At peaks for 1947 were American Smelting, Union Carbide, Western Union "A," Socony, Gulf Oil, Shell Union Oil and St. Regis Paper. Ahead the greater part of the time were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Shet, American Rolling Mill, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, International Harvester, Caterpillar Tractor, Du Pont, J. C. Penney, Colgate-Palmolive, Pupblicker, Monsanto Chemical and Homestake Mining. Increased quarterly payments lifted Reynolds Tobacco "B" and Byron Jackson. Rails were narrow.

Don't Be Surprised at Lewis' Victory—You May Pay for It

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, July 11—When John L. Lewis got the coal mine owners to sign a new contract this week, he practically wrote his own ticket.

Don't be surprised at the ease with which he got the contract, the best he ever got from the owners.

In the end you may have to pay for it, and in a number of different ways.

James Marlow

Before seeing why it was easy for Lewis, just step back a second into some recent history.

During the war and for some time afterward the government controlled prices and wages.

When Lewis wanted wage increases for his miners, the owners yelled they couldn't do it without price increases for their coal.

This put the government on a hot spot, since it was sitting on both prices and wages.

Had To Run Mines

To keep peace, it several times had to step in and run the mines itself.

But the government last year, 1946, finally gave up its control over prices and wages.

Yet, during one of the squabbles between Lewis and the owners more than a year ago the government took over the mines and made a contract with Lewis.

The government held Lewis to that contract even after it had abandoned its price controls.

On June 30 its contract with Lewis ran out.

For the first time in five years that left Lewis and the owners free to make a contract without any price or wage controls.

It has taken them less than two weeks to do it.

See Advantages

When they looked out at America through the windows of the room in which they sat down to bargain, this is what they saw:

1. A land in which business is booming, in which there is great demand for the goods factories turn out. Automobiles, for instance.

2. Scattered prophecies that this country is heading for a business slump, a setback, a recession.

What would happen if the owners refused Lewis' demands and there was a big coal strike, in spite of the new labor law?

1. Factories and businesses everywhere would slow down or shut down for lack of coal. Workers would be laid off in the idle plants.

2. That business slow-down might be the very thing that would bring on a dangerous slump, maybe a business tailspin.

Other Side of Picture

What would be the other side of the picture—if the owners gave in to Lewis' demands for higher wages and other benefits for the miners?

1. If the mine owners found they are losing money on the deal, they could raise the price of coal.

2. Then if you used some of that coal to heat your home, it would cost you more for heat.

3. Also, factories which bought the higher-priced coal undoubtedly would have to charge more for the things they made with the help of coal.

4. It this meant an increase all around in living costs, at least business would be kept booming and people would remain employed.

Right now there's a tremendous demand for steel and the things made from steel. But steel itself is made with the help of coal in the steel furnaces.

A coal strike would mean a big loss to the steel companies and, in fact, to all business, since steel is the backbone of American business.

But some of the biggest steel companies own coal mines. So what? Just this:

It was the steel companies which led the parade of coal mine owners in signing up with Lewis on his terms.

If the steel companies now find it necessary to raise steel prices—because of higher coal costs—the raise undoubtedly will be passed on to the things-made-of-steel which you buy.

So don't be surprised at Lewis' victory for his miners—or at any increase in the price of things you buy.

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I WHIRLED my chair around quickly as Mary spoke, and darted a keen glance at her. She was still tense, I saw, but the frightening tautness was distinctly lessened, and her eyes were no longer brooding but bright with interest.

"I'm not sure," she said, "but I think I have these three lines licked."

"If you have," I said, "your worry over your memory ought to be over. That was quick study."

Her low laugh held derision.

"Auntie Madge!" she expostulated. "When you know that I prided myself on being virtually the quickest study on Broadway!"

"You misunderstood me," I said equably. "I did not mean that it was quick study for you as you were a year ago, but a quick study for an ordinary student, and for you as a convalescent just returned from a year at a sanitarium where you were not permitted even to glance at a play. But all this is beside the point. When I give you the cue, recite the lines you have studied."

Gave the Clue

I picked up the manuscript, keeping my own fingers from trembling only by a strong effort, and gave her the cue. She took it promptly, recited the lines calmly in the parrot repetition of rehearsals, and then looked at me.

"How about it?" she asked, and my heart descended into my shoe soles. Yet I was compelled to tell her the truth.

"Almost perfect," I told her, and she was on the edge of her chair again.

"Almost perfect," she repeated. "Don't give me that double talk! I failed, didn't I?"

"Will you shut up, and listen to me?" I snapped, in simulated exasperation. "You are jumping to perfectly ridiculous conclusions. You did not fail. When I said almost perfect, I meant it. You simply put in an extra word, and it was a word that should belong in the script. I think I'll write it in."

Mary's derision was an angry hoot this time.

"Like the hinges of the hot place, you'll write it in!" she gibed. "I can see you putting words in and taking them out because a half-witted niece makes a mistake in her lines! And that's just what Dr. Twitchell said—that if I put something in or left something out, it was a sign my memory was gone."

"Cowing Look"

I gave her what Dicky used to call my "cowing look."

"In about another second I'm going to shake you so soundly that your teeth will fall out," I threatened, without the semblance of a smile to lighten the threat.

"I never heard such arrant nonsense," I went on. "And you are deliberating misquoting Dr. Twitchell."

"I heard what he said, didn't I?" she demanded sullenly.

"If you did, your ears weren't functioning," I retorted. "I heard him distinctly, and—if I do say it as shouldn't—" And I smirked deliberately—"my memory is supposed to be good."

"You're fishing," Mary returned, and I rejoiced at even that slight indication of lessened tension. "Suppose you give me your version of what he said."

"That's what I'm going to do, if I am not interrupted," I said.

Not To Get Discouraged

"Dr. Twitchell said," I began, as Mary giggled, "that your remembering your lines as well was a sign that you have a foundation on which to work, and that you were not to get discouraged if the going was tough and if at times you failed to remember."

"But he also said," Mary averred stoutly, "that if my memory had broken down completely, I would have omitted a word or two from those first two lines, or added a couple of extraneous ones."

"From those first two lines," I shot back, "Remember the amount of study you put on those. I would have been discouraged myself if you had failed to remember them. You have put very little time on these three. Suppose you get at them again."

Mary looked at me restlessly.

"The trouble is," she said, "that I can't put my mind on them. Do you suppose you could round up that bridge game? Oh dear, no! Aunt Katharine's asleep, isn't she?"
